East German Newsmen Held

BONN (Reuters)—West German police have detained four East German journalists here and rounded up others in West Germany on suspicion of espionage, the justice ministry said today.

Czechs Purge Two Leaders

VIENNA (UPI)—Communist Czechoslovakia today disclosed the purge of its former secret police chief, Karol Bacilek, and another old-line Communist, Bruno Koehler, from their leading party posts.

The Czech government announcement said both were dismissed from the party's central committee, which means Bacilek has lost his post on the nine-man ruling presidium as well, and Koehler is out as one of the six secretaries of the central committee.

No reason was given for the purge, but both leaders are old-line Stalinists closely identified with the harsh policies of the late president Klement Gottwald.

Police said cities where East German journalists had been detained included Hanover and Dusseldorf.

During the night police searched the offices of correspondents and reporters for ADN, the official East German news agency; Neues Deutschland, the main East German Communist party organ, and the East German radio station Deutschlandsender.

REPORT FREELY

The ministry said the action was not directed against press freedom. They said East German journalists can report freely from West Germany, a right not given West German correspondents in East Germany.

They said police suspect criminal "hate reports" broadcast and published in East Germany originate from correspondents working in West Germany.

WIRE BRIEFS

Throne Speech Ready
OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet met today to put the final touches on the speech from the throne outlining the government's legislative plans for the session of parliament opening Thursday.

Family Terrorized

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A pair of would-be robbers taped up a family of four—binding a baby in the arms of a pregnant mother—in a futile attempt to get the combination to a super-market safe.

Rebuilds Cabinet

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—The army maintained strict security precautions today as President Jose Maria Guido continued to rebuild his cabinet along lines satisfactory to Argentina's military leaders.

New Law Catches 5

PRETORIA (Reuters)—South Africa has jailed five more persons without jury trials under the drastic new "no trial" law, police announced today.

New Trade Agreement

PARIS (Reuters)—France and Japan today signed a six-year trade agreement under which France lowered its trade barriers against Japanese goods.

Warfare Exercise

HALIFAX (CP)—Canadian, United States and British armed forces units today began a "large scale" anti-submarine warfare exercise in the western Atlantic.

U.S. May Cut Ties

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department said today it is discussing with Latin American governments the possibility of withdrawing diplomatic recognition from Haiti. (See also page 3)

Talks Open July 5

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China and the Soviet Union will open talks in Moscow July 5 in an effort to thrash out their ideological differences, the official Communist New China News Agency reported today.

Negroes Stone Police

CHICAGO (AP)—Hundreds of Negroes, said to have been angered by the wounding of a Negro youth during an attempted burglary, stoned police and firemen in what police termed an anti-police demonstration Monday night.

Fiery Crash Kills 6

BALTIMORE (AP)—Six persons were killed today when a tractor-trailer crashed head-on into a car, causing a fiery explosion that left a highway on the eastern shore of Maryland littered with bodies and torn metal.

Money Crisis In UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A June deadline hangs over the United Nations General Assembly as it opens a special session on financing today.

Current authorization for expenditures on the UN's two major peace-keeping operations—the Congo force and the emergency force in the Middle East—expires on that date. The special session is charged with working out a method of paying for them in the last six months of the year.

In the background is the larger UN financial dilemma, brought on by chronic indebtedness of some members and the refusal of a number, including the Soviet bloc, to pay costs of the peace-keeping operations.

PART PAYMENT

A UN source said today that four countries—Cuba, Hungary, Paraguay and the United Arab Republic—have paid enough of their assessments in the last few days to avoid any danger of losing their voting rights.

A fifth country, Haiti, was expected to pay up today.

Article 19 of the UN charter specifies that any member more than two years in arrears "shall have no vote in the General Assembly." Unless the assembly decides that failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the member's control.

While a long-term solution is not expected to be taken up before the regular 18th assembly session opens in the fall, a UN source said Monday that Secretary-General U Thant is working on an austerity budget for next year.

The informant also reported encouraging results in a drive to collect arrears. Since the start of the year about 40 members have paid up between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000, leaving a balance outstanding of about $196,000,000, due mostly to the unpaid assessments for the Congo and Middle East forces.

APPROVE SPENDING

For these two groups, the special assembly will be asked to approve spending of $42,500,000 in the last six months of this year—$33,000,000 for the Congo force and $9,500,000 for the UNEF.

The United States has been covering almost half the costs of the two forces. But recently the U.S. has insisted that it will not go on paying more than its regular 22.02-per-cent assessment unless other countries pay up their arrears. Most observers believe the U.S. will keep up at least part of its voluntary payments.

The assembly is also expected to vote for admittance of the 11th UN member—the tiny Persian Gulf Sheikhdom of Kuwait.

U.S. Permits Fares Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board bowed today to diplomatic pressure and agreed not to penalize United States airlines if they put into effect a five per cent increase in air fares on Atlantic routes.

State Secretary Rusk had suggested that in the absence of C.A.B. authority to regulate rates in international air transportation the C.A.B. should permit Pan-American World Airways and Trans World Airlines to adopt the higher rates approved by the International Air Transport Association last fall.

Britain had threatened to take steps to prevent operation of U.S. lines into that country unless they adopted the higher rates.

Thet sound o' meat grinders is Parliament gittin' ready to meet.

Diff'rence b'tween an astronaut an' a politician is one goes into orbit an' t'other gits into a whirl.

Fair weather ain't allus fair weather.

3,000 TROOPS READY

New Violence In Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Uncertainty and apprehension continued to grip this racially-troubled city today as 3,000 combat-ready troops stood within striking distance in the event of new outbreaks of major violence.

Scattered violence was reported during the night. Two persons were hurt. Automobile windshields were smashed and windows were broken in about a dozen buildings.

A white youth was slashed on his right elbow with a knife. He said he was attacked by a group of Negroes. A Negro man was admitted to hospital after he was struck in the face by a large steel ball fired from a slingshot, apparently wielded by a white youth.

Police arrested two Negroes early today in connection with attacks on officers during the Sunday riot. Carl Ivory, 53, was charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder, police Capt. B. F. Walker said. Erskine Brown, 26, was charged with one count of assault with a deadly weapon—a rock.

Balky Diesel Causes Trouble

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper's big try for 22 orbits around the earth, unexpectedly postponed today after a radar failure in Bermuda, has been scheduled for another attempt Wednesday.

Soon after today's flight was called off, only 12 minutes before blastoff, space officials were setting a new time.

At 7 p.m. EDT today the radar system will be checked again.

If all is going well, Cooper will repeat the whole process Wednesday, with the takeoff scheduled for somewhere between 9 and 11:30 a.m. EDT. If not, there will be further delays.

Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operation director, made the announcement at a press conference. He pointed out that the radar system is essential in making sure that the astronaut is entering space successfully.

"We could not, we would not go without it," Williams said.

SAME WEATHER EXPECTED
When Cooper was informed of the scrub, his only comment was:

"This was a very realistic simulation." The remark was relayed by Williams.

Williams also said the weather prediction for Wednesday is approximately the same as for today.

Liquid oxygen will be removed from the giant Atlas booster, but it is not necessary to scrub out the tanks as it has been on previous flights. Space officials said that the Bermuda radar is the sole problem as of now in determining whether the flight will go Wednesday.

As for the astronaut, he got out of his capsule at 12:27 p.m. today. He had been in the space ship for five hours, 50 minutes.

PREVIOUS DELAY
The postponement came as an anti-climax after earlier troubles not connected with the Bermuda radar had held up the scheduled launching for two hours, nine minutes.

That trouble was caused by a balky diesel engine designed to move the giant service tower away from the launching pad. It was necessary to replace a fuel pump and purge foreign matter from the fuel line before the engine could operate.

Indications of the radar trouble came only about 15 minutes before the launching was called off. The tracking station at Bermuda said it was experiencing intermittent difficulty, but Mercury control officials decided to continue the countdown in case the radar could be repaired.

But technicians at Bermuda reported minutes later that it would be impossible to replace the equipment today and the shot was called off.

SENDS SIGNALS
The radar, described as FPS-16, is a 12-foot-diameter dish designed to send radio signals to the spacecraft as it rises over Bermuda about five minutes after launching.

The signal triggers a device called a radio transponder in the spacecraft. By measuring the time it takes a signal to travel from the Bermuda station to the spacecraft and then back to Bermuda, computers can determine precise velocity and the altitude of the astronaut's vehicle.

This information would be essential for determining whether Cooper had achieved the proper orbital course. If

Warm Welcome For Winnie In Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Members of the House of Commons stood and waved their agenda papers in a warm welcome to Sir Winston Churchill when he paid what they sensed could be one of his last visits to the House today.

On May 2, Britain's wartime leader announced that he would not be running as a candidate at the next general election because of his increasing immobility since he broke a thigh-bone last summer.

As he entered the Parliament buildings, he doffed his hat and waved and smiled to the crowd.

His son-in-law, Agriculture Minister Christopher Soames, helped him as he went into the debating chamber. There at the entrance, he smiled acknowledgment of the members' welcome.

GREETED BY MACMILLAN
Prime Minister Macmillan moved along the seats to greet him.

"At the risk of being out of order, I think the whole House would wish me to welcome most warmly my right honorable friend the member for Woodford (Churchill) on his return to the House of Commons after his accident and to say how glad we are to welcome our most distinguished member."

Harold Wilson, leader of the Opposition Labor party, said he also would like to say how much Labor members welcome "the sight of the right honorable gentleman coming into this chamber after his accident."

"We are glad to see him fully restored that he can be with us again. The whole House will join with the prime minister in giving him the warmest possible welcome."

Churchill, who first appeared in the House as long ago as 1900, looked fit and well. He was obviously delighted to be back again after nearly a year's absence.

CAOQUETTE 'SHOT DOWN' BY THOMPSON'S DENIAL

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit leader Robert Thompson said Monday it was "a fabrication of somebody's imagination" to allege—as Deputy Leader Real Caouette did last weekend—that Social Credit members tried to negotiate a deal to keep the Diefenbaker government in office after the April 8 general election.

At the same time, Mr. Thompson said in an interview that six Social Credit MPs who gave, and later repudiated, a promise of support for a Liberal government had broken an agreement not to participate in any deals as a result of the indecisive outcome of the election.

Mr. Caouette has said the six acted to forestall a keep-Diefenbaker-in-power move in which he implicated Dr. Guy Marcoux, the party's parliamentary whip. Dr. Marcoux resigned his Quebec party membership Saturday and announced he will sit as an Independent Social Credit member in the parliamentary session which opens Thursday.

Mr. Thompson said Dr. Marcoux will be invited to attend the caucus of Social Credit MPs Wednesday, adding that he hopes it will be possible to bring the MP for Quebec-Montmorency back into these strategy sessions on a regular basis afterwards.

King Baudouin, Queen Elizabeth Ride to Palace

Times News Service

LONDON—King Baudouin of the Belgians was warmly welcomed to Britain today by a kiss from Queen Elizabeth.

Baudouin's wife, Fabiola, 34, and Elizabeth's husband Philip looked on approvingly.

It was a kiss on the cheek planted before hundreds of onlookers on a chilly railway platform at London's Victoria Station.

Shivering slightly in the cold wind, Queen Elizabeth walked out on the long red welcoming carpet just as the royal train from Gatwick Airport chugged into view.

The Queen stepped forward and—apparently to Baudouin's considerable surprise—bussed him on the cheek.

The royal kiss seemed to set just the right tone for this first state visit to Britain by a Belgian monarch since 1937.

It ended long persisting rumors of coolness between the British and Belgian royal families.

VANCOUVER—Police charged Mrs. Roona Marie Procter, 78, with shoplifting Monday in connection with the theft of a pair of $2.98 gloves. They said the woman had $1,070 in a purse at the time of her arrest.

GLASGOW—William Lumsden, the Vancouver credit investigator who inherited an Aberdeenshire estate whose value was estimated at $250,000, has sold the 800-acre property. It was learned today.

The estate includes the hamlet of Belhelvie, near Aberdeen, a mansion house and seven small holdings. Lumsden said shortly after arriving in Scotland from Canada that he might turn the estate into a dude ranch or country club.

Aberdeenshire farmer John M. Reid bought the entire estate from Lumsden for an undisclosed price. In turn Reid sold the mansion house, Belhelvie Lodge, to a retired military officer, Lt.-Col. T. C. Duguid.

Lumsden now is on holiday in the Outer Hebrides. He inherited the property from a great-aunt who lived in Toronto most of her life.

CAVOUR, Italy—The minute Margherita Cauda, 28, squeezed into the banquet hall the contest was over.

Not another girl at the 21-course dinner had a chance at the title—Miss Fat Italy, 1963.

Margherita calmly displaced three or four other persons around the fat folks table, putting her 465 pounds before the vast array of wines and viands.

No other contender for the annual title here was even close.

Luigi Cometto, 30, who won the Mr. Fat Italy title, looked lean beside her. Even after the meal for the two-score or more weighty contestants, he could tip the scales at only a paltry 317 pounds.

Margherita hopes she may even be able to do a little better next year—if the food holds out. She says she picked up four pounds in the last year and figures she's still a growing girl.

READING, Eng.—Henniker Thorp has made what could be medical history—he has the mumps at the age of 99.

"We never before heard of anyone getting this illness so late in life," said one of his doctors, "we are writing the case up for medical records."

"I can't think how I caught it," said the patient.

asked Cooper: "Are you ready?"

Cooper replied: "You bet."

He waved to reporters as he left the living quarters in Hangar S to climb into the huge van for the three-mile ride to launching complex 14. He was smiling broadly.

Fingers of pink were pushing across the sky as Cooper climbed out of the van. The air force major paused to shake hands with one of the pad technicians, then walked quickly to the elevator for the 16-storey ride to the top of his huge booster rocket.

MAIN PURPOSE

The main purpose of the mission is to collect medical data on man's ability to perform tasks during prolonged exposure to weightlessness.

Gemini-oriented experiments slated for Cooper include the release of a ball of blinding lights that was to follow Faith 7 in a separate orbit and the ejection of a 30-inch inflatable balloon to trail Cooper's capsule on a 100-foot line for 90 minutes.

Cooper was asked to observe and photograph these objects in a test of his ability to judge distances of space, an essential for Gemini and Apollo space rendezvous missions.

In other experiments aimed at landing men on the moon in this decade, Cooper was to take photographs of the horizon, stars and a high intensity light in South Africa to determine their use as navigation aids when the three-man Apollo spaceship returns from the moon.

Cooper was fitted with medical sensors that would keep tap on his well-being throughout the flight, then tugged on the tight-fitting silver suit.

Ground Broken In Ceremony For New Church

The reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon) held a ground-breaking ceremony Sunday for a new church at the corner of Jutland Street and Burnside Road.

After a prayer of thanksgiving by Pastor H. Pled, Elder H. Baker broke the soil. The Victoria group has been organized here for more than 20 years and is noted for its service projects, particularly with the Silver Threads organization.

Most of the construction of the new church will be done by volunteer labor, and it is hoped the building will be completed by next fall.

Hotel Down But Not Out Creditors Say

Victoria's Cherrybank Hotel will continue to operate as a going concern despite filing of bankruptcy proceedings against the owner, Columbia Properties Ltd., a spokesman for creditors said today.

J. Donald Smith of Commonwealth Mortgage Corp. of Victoria, principal creditor, said "we want to keep operating to safeguard the creditors, and are confident the hotel will be profitable."

William Schreim of Vancouver was named trustee of the property as a result of the bankruptcy proceedings, involving nearly $200,000, filed against Columbia Properties several weeks ago.

Principal shareholders of the property company are Dexter Lewers of Vancouver and Ralph Cossey of Victoria.

Barbers Clip Work Week

Saanich barbers have persuaded the municipal council to regulate their hours. But it was a close shave.

U.S. BLAMED FOR ATTACK

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet news agency Tass today alleged a U.S. torpedo boat entered North Korean coastal waters last Saturday and fired on a Korean fishing boat, killing three fishermen.

The agency, in a report from Pyongyang, said the attack took place at the mouth of the Sanke River. It said the other members of the fishing boat's crew were slightly wounded.

The municipal solicitor was directed Monday night to draft a bylaw stipulating the following closing hours for shops in Saanich:

—From Tuesday to Saturday inclusive from 5:45 p.m. until 8:30 a.m. the following morning which is not a Sunday, Monday or holiday.

—All day Monday each week except the week preceding Christmas Day or any week containing two or more holidays.

—Public holidays, all day. The Monday closing clause follows the Oak Bay pattern rather than that followed in the city which has Wednesday closing for barbers. These are the only two areas south of Chemainus in which barber shop hours are regulated by bylaw under the Municipal Act.

TRIAL FACES PRISONERS

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Warden Tom Hall of the federal penitentiary here said Monday night that three prisoners who held a guard hostage for 14 hours in a prison riot April 20 will be returned to face charges.

Guard Pat Dennis was released only after prison officials agreed to transfer the three who held him to other institutions.

Gerard Caissy, 28, and Wayne Carlson, 21, were sent to Montreal's St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary and Nelson Bernard Wood, 27, went to Stony Mountain in Manitoba.

Warden Hall declined to say, for security reasons, when the three would be returned.

New Officer Shot to Death In Accident

OTTAWA (CP)—An inquest is being planned for later this week into the accidental shooting of rookie policeman Jeffrey Armstrong by a fellow rookie Monday.

Armstrong, 23, died 40 minutes after a bullet from a .38-calibre service pistol struck him in the stomach and smashed into his spine.

Police said the shot was fired by Lester McPhee, 25, as he was wiping his pistol with a handkerchief in a locker room at the Ottawa police station.

Both completed a two-month training period last week. They were preparing for the regular inspection before starting their shifts on patrol duty.

JOINED FORCE MARCH 13

Armstrong was single and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Armstrong of Ottawa. Both he and McPhee joined the force March 13.

Police regulations require that service revolvers be loaded with five bullets, with the hammer of the pistol resting on the sixth, an empty chamber.

Police Chief Reginald Axcell said there have been occasional shots fired accidentally at police headquarters, but he could not remember any instance when injury or death had resulted.

He said McPhee took his revolver out of its holster to wipe it clean after he noticed some dust on it. The weapon discharged, striking Armstrong who was standing in front of his locker five feet away.

Constable Armstrong, doubling up, cried, "Les, what did you do?" He was taken to the hospital where he died of massive internal bleeding.

OAS Peace Team in Haiti As Bosch Pulls Troops

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—A peace mission of the Organization of American States arrived Monday night for another look at the Haitian-Dominican crisis, eased further by the Dominican Republic's announcement that it is withdrawing its troops from the Haitian border. Part of the OAS fact-finding team was to fly on today to Port au Prince, where opponents of President Francois Duvalier have vowed to assassinate him by Wednesday.

The Dominican government's announcement gave no reason for the troop withdrawal. The main consideration apparently was Haiti's gradual release of opponents of Duvalier who had taken refuge in Latin American embassies in Port au Prince.

Dominican President Juan Bosch rushed troops to the border two weeks ago after Haitian militiamen invaded the Dominican Embassy in search of refugees there.

The Dominican army hierarchy also was known to be reluctant to launch an attack against Haiti. There also has been some criticism here of Bosch because he did not consult the Dominican congress before putting the army on a war footing.

William L. Ryan of The Associated Press reported from Port au Prince that the consensus there was that Duvalier would survive to start a second presidential term despite opposition vows to destroy him by Wednesday.

Duvalier's first six-year term expires Wednesday. Although the Haitian constitution bars a president's re-election, he is to be inaugurated May 22 for a second six-year term to which he declared himself elected after a rigged election two years ago.

Thirty-two new Canadian citizens will be sworn in by Judge Montague-Tyrhitt-Drake at Victoria Courthouse on Wednesday, May 22, at 10 a.m., not on May 15 as announced earlier.

Directly following the swearing-in ceremony, Greater Victoria Citizenship Council will hold a reception for the new Canadians in the YWCA, 920 Blanshard.

George I. Warren, former commissioner of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, was recently elected president of the council.

Payoff Expected From Junkets

A week-long tourist promotion on the prairies should reap big dividends, the leaders of two B.C. goodwill tours said today.

The two groups of British Columbians showered Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta with salmon, Indian sweaters and fresh flowers.

"We were received with great enthusiasm everywhere," said Ron Gadsby of the B.C. recreation department, who led the tour through Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

'TERRIFIC'

"We got a terrific reception," said Ron Worley, assistant manager of B.C. Ferries, who conducted a tour of Alberta.

Both groups showed slides, gave luncheons, appeared on television and spread the word about B.C. wherever they went.

Victoria alderman Cecil Parrott distributed fresh flowers grown in Beacon Hill Park greenhouses. Other officials handed out Cowichan sweaters.

Mr. Gadsby's group, which included Agriculture Minister Frank Richter, visited Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Swift Current.

The Alberta tour, assisted by Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, went to Calgary, Edmonton, Red Deer and Medicine Hat.

Patrolman Foils Store Burglars; Little Taken

A beat constable on patrol apparently scared burglars away from W. & J. Wilson early Monday.

He discovered the sidewalk loading doors on Trounce Alley were open at 5:35 a.m. They were securely fastened when he checked three hours earlier.

There was no sign of how the doors had been opened. They were not forced.

The officer scared away the burglars before they had a chance to rifle the place, police believe. However, an inventory check revealed they got away with two $5 ties and a $20 money clip.

An alarm on the doors failed to sound.

Rezoning Approved

Saanich council Monday night approved light industrial zoning in the area between Town and Country and Mayfair shopping plazas.

However, it did so in face of opposition from Couns. Joseph Casey and Gregory Cook.

Coun. Casey said he felt implementation of the lands and planning committee proposal was a "retrograde step at this time."

"Our shopping centre will wane and perish," he said.

Coun. Casey called the resolution "a deliberate attempt to prevent another retail establishment" in the area.

Back to Normal

THE DECISIONS OF HYANNIS Port last weekend—so far as the official communiqué reveals—are general in nature, with two exceptions. Canada agrees to equip certain of its military forces with nuclear weapons. The United States agrees to re-consider the Columbia River Treaty.

Though much is made of it in the headlines, there is nothing new in the nuclear decision. Mr. Pearson is merely carrying out the policy which he outlined in the election campaign and reiterated after taking office.

It should be understood, however, that Canada is not joining the "nuclear club" of the United States, Britain, Russia and France. It is neither making nor independently controlling the use of nuclear weapons. Those installed in Canadian planes and missiles cannot be used without the joint agreement of the Canadian and American governments. And they are for defence only, not for long-range attack.

It should be understood also that the Canadian government's decision only fulfills commitments already made by its predecessor when the carriers were bought at huge cost but never equipped because of a cabinet disagreement. Finally it should be understood that in making good this policy the Canadian government has undertaken no commitment to a multi-nation nuclear force which will be discussed at the Ottawa meeting of NATO next week.

In short, Mr. Pearson has done precisely what he promised to do, no more, no less. Of course Parliament can reverse his decision immediately if it so chooses, at the expense of destroying the new government on a want-of-confidence motion, which seems unlikely.

On the long-delayed Columbia problem it is indicated that President Kennedy would not object to some changes in the treaty by means of an additional protocol. If so, the changes are not likely to be substantial. For if the engineering design of the international power scheme were to be basically altered then the American Congress might well take a long time to agree, if it agreed at all.

What advantages does Mr. Pearson expect to gain for Canada?

What concessions would the American government and Congress be prepared to make? No answer to these questions has come from Hyannis Port.

In any case, there can be no progress on the treaty in the Canadian Parliament until the federal and British Columbia governments reach agreement.

Apparently they agree that Canada's downstream power shall be sold to the United States—the policy rejected by the Diefenbaker government until its dying hours—but the provincial government certainly has not agreed to any substantial change in the engineering design and will look critically at any change proposed by Ottawa.

Moreover, the whole scheme is predicated on the sale of power to American consumers at a price that they are willing to pay and that price has not been negotiated. It is improbable that they will pay Mr. Bennett's asking price and some months of bargaining may be required to reach a compromise satisfactory to both sides.

Assuming that all these difficulties are overcome, the treaty must run the gauntlet of a parliamentary investigation at Ottawa and that must take time. It will be surprising indeed if work on the Columbia can start before the end of this year.

But the chief results of the meeting between the President and the Prime Minister do not lie in two specific agreements. Much more important, and far broader in scope, were the informal and candid conversations which have re-established normal relations between the two neighboring peoples after a tragic break. As Mr. Pearson has plainly intimated, Canada and the United States will continue to disagree on various problems but they will disagree as friends and allies. They will strive to agree without pressing their disagreements to the point of quarrel and threat.

At any rate, President Kennedy is willing to meet Canada half way, is immensely relieved by the complete change of atmosphere on the border and, from Mr. Pearson, has received a new understanding of Canada's peculiar problems. Two good days' work, doubtless going far beyond the communiqué, were done at Hyannis Port.

Anger and Tension

VIOLENCE HAS BEGOTTEN further violence in Birmingham, and the protests of Negroes in the Alabama city may easily get beyond the control of their leaders.

After their long campaign, under fairly peaceful conditions, the Negroes had gained an agreement with business elements of the city which promised them at least some of the rights they have demanded. The demands are not extreme by most standards—the right to eat at department store lunch counters, the right to employment at more than menial tasks. These have been granted, with 60 to 90-day time limits. But the bombing of a Negro home and a motel over the weekend precipitated rioting. The whole racial situation, worsened by police use of dogs and fire hoses, had been ready to explode at any time in even more severe form.

It is for this reason that President Kennedy is giving his personal attention to the Birmingham problem, which he views as a major crisis. Birmingham is one of the strongest bastions of segregation in the South. Any gains made there will be reflected in other less adamant communities.

The hope is that, having achieved national publicity, the Negro population will be able to stop short of extreme violence which would hurt their desegregation movement. At the same time, there lies upon the Birmingham civic government the responsibility to see that flagrant abuses of human rights and defiance of federal laws are not permitted to remain as incitement to disturbance.

For Years to Come

IT IS GOOD NEWS THAT HELM-cken House has been successfully renovated and will be opened once more to the public later this week.

The 110-year residence has great historical significance for Victoria, not only as a relic of early building but because of its famous occupant, Dr. J. S. Helmcken. It was his home for 67 years after he built it in 1853, and the renovators have taken pains to retain as much of the original construction and flavor of the house as possible.

Now preserved for many years to come, the home will be a source of interest to Victorians and visitors, a remembrance of early people and events, and a standing proof of our respect for local history.

A White Part, Occupying 87 Per Cent of the Land, and Eight Black Parts

By COLIN LEGUM, Who Recently Visited South Africa for the London Observer

NOBODY should be able to ask of South Africa at some time in the future what was asked at the Nuremberg Trials or after Khrushchev's exposure of Stalin's tyranny: "Why weren't we told at the time?"

It is not difficult to find out what is happening in Dr. Verwoerd's republic as a result of the government's policy of uprooting and reorganizing the lives and relationships of millions of people.

Every single day affects in some deep personal way the lives of hundreds of families of all races—but mainly Africans and Indians. They lose their right to work. They have to give up their homes and their businesses. Families are forcibly separated—husbands from wives, children from parents.

One out of three of the republic's 11 million Africans no longer has the legal right to live anywhere in the country. Where these people may live is a decision for bureaucrats.

Well over 100,000 people have already been forcibly removed from one area to another, or from the towns to the stagnant, workless native reserves. Another 500,000 are already under notice of removal. And by the time the process of creating Bantustans is completed, well over five million people will have been uprooted under the plan already announced.

Not since Stalin moved the Volga Germans and Hitler moved Europe's Jews has there been such a calculated effort to transport populations solely for the purpose of serving the interests of a ruling oligarchy.

All these facts are well known in South Africa. They are published in the press; spoken of in parliament; protested at public meetings. In a hundred places one can see for oneself what is happening.

The difficulty is to make it comprehensible to people who cannot conceive how an entire nation—with the exception of only a tiny, courageous minority who risk bannings, house arrests and imprisonment—should behave in this way. Why do the bulk of the country's three million whites condone, connive at, or at least accept what is going on?

One should begin perhaps by describing what Dr. Verwoerd is trying to do, and why he is being allowed to do it.

His premise (a correct one) is that no where in Africa will Africans be willing to share power. Their demand everywhere is to be politically dominant. Therefore, if a European community the size of South Africa's wants to maintain control over its own affairs it must refuse to surrender any political power.

He has put two choices to the white electorate: integration of the races or separation—and they have decisively rejected the first. They are willing, therefore, to endorse whatever action may be necessary to achieve the second. They see it as a simple choice between "them" or "us."

The prime minister, however, recognizes that it is impossible to go on forever denying political rights or economic opportunities to Africans. And since he refuses to allow these in the present republic, his solution to the dilemma is to divide South Africa into nine parts—a white part, occupying 87 per cent of the land, and eight black parts, the Bantustans. These, in time, will be allowed to grow to independence. But until this happens they are to be controlled, guided and assisted by the whites.

This partitioning of South Africa into nine separate states is what is now being attempted. Dr. Verwoerd, and with him the majority of whites, believe this is the only hope for white survival on conditions acceptable to themselves.

Before taking a closer look at the way these plans are working out, it is important to describe briefly what is involved in tearing the races apart and in setting up Bantustans.

The republic's 11 million Africans are distributed roughly in three equal parts between the reserves (the future Bantustans), the white areas and the white farms. The declared official policy is that, in future, the sole criterion for any African to be anywhere in the white areas will be whether or not his labor is needed there; this decree will affect two-thirds of the total African population.

Nobody knows for sure how many Africans will be declared surplus to the needs of whites. The fact that an African has been born and has lived all his life in a particular place will no longer be relevant to his right to go on living there once the new Bantu Laws Amendment bill is passed.

With half a million Africans at present unemployed, one gets some idea of the immediate surplus that will be pushed back either into the reserves or into labor depots. From there they will be directed, not only where, but also for whom they may work. If they lose their job they must leave their place of residence until another job is found for them.

The Bantustans are to be reorganized to absorb the surplus workers. But the land (13 per cent of the country's total) is insufficient for those already living there. It has been estimated that 3,600,000 people will have to leave the land in the reserves to enable farming to be made productive.

To provide homes and work to those declared surplus to the needs of white areas, the government proposes to build hundreds of new towns close to the border of the Bantustans. Just across the borderline, white-owned industries are to be located, drawing their labor from the Bantustan populations.

WASHINGTON:

Rumors and Security

By MAX FREEDMAN

MR. THEODORE C. Sorenson, special counsel to President Kennedy, has just made an important point which seems to have been overlooked by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee in its critical report on the Cuban problem. He pointed out that a member of Congress or the press can achieve some measure of fame by reporting rumors or stating problems or raising questions. But Freedman that can never do for a President who must make the decisions that will affect the whole nation.

He added that refugee reports on offensive Soviet missiles installed on Cuba recurred for well over a year before these missiles were actually brought to the island. Each report was methodically checked out by the intelligence authorities. So long as these findings were negative, no President—whatever others were saying—could stake the security of the nation on "unfounded rumors and exaggeration." Once such a missile threat was found to exist, the Government took the most resolute action, even at the risk of a nuclear clash with Russia.

Mr. Sorenson said that last fall most specialists in Soviet affairs believed that long-range Soviet missiles, with their closely guarded electronic systems, would never be stationed in Cuba, nearly 6,600 miles from Russian soil and supplies. All the same, "each rumor to this effect was checked out" and increasing rumors brought increased surveillance.

When, finally, the unexpected did happen, this discovery did not diminish President Kennedy's respect for these career servants. It merely demonstrated once again "that the only infallible experts are those whose forecasts have never been tested."

These comments, by one of the most important men in the White House who stood at President Kennedy's right hand at every stage of the Cuban crisis, were not made in reply to Senator Stennis or the subcommittee's report. They form part of the text of his second and final Speranza Lecture at Columbia University. If anything, they become more significant and persuasive because they were not made in the context of a political debate.

It is very easy for the committee to be wise after the event. With a high degree of infallibility, it can distribute its prizes and its criticisms. But how wise a guide would it have been during the agony of the October crisis? Judging from the belligerent folly of Senator Thurmond and other self-appointed experts on Cuban affairs as they clamor for a stronger policy full of menace and ambiguity, the nation has reason to be grateful that these Congressional critics were not in charge of policy last fall.

The missiles have been removed. Cuba is being watched as no other nation has ever been watched in peacetime to make sure that no more offensive weapons will be brought to the island. Nor can any hidden offensive weapons be produced suddenly without the United States knowing about it.

Do the critics in Congress want President Kennedy to tell them everything he is doing in and over and near Cuba? He has already been candid to the limits of responsibility.

It is the critics who have not dealt fairly with the country. Their wisdom about the past, which now safely belongs to history, cannot excuse their recklessness about the future, which can still be lost by blundering and provocative action.

FROM SINGAPORE

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

In the Map Rooms—and on the Ground

AS THE enemy attacks increase in scope and intensity, the peasants all over South Vietnam are feverishly digging ditches, raising hedgehog barricades of sharpened bamboo and unrolling miles of barbed wire to convert their settlements into fortified "strategic hamlets" which will hopefully keep out the Vietcong (Vietnamese Communist) guerrillas, numbering about 2,500, now pitted against the anti-Communist regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

For what started as an experiment less than two years ago has developed into a nationwide crash operation: between 5,000 and 6,000 strategic hamlets have already been created, and Mr. Ngo Dinh Nhu, "Counsellor" and powerful brother of the President, has now demanded that 14,000 be completed by the end of this year.

Ideally the strategic hamlet is surrounded by high, spiky fences, dominated by a tall watchtower, and manned by a squad of Vietnam's Self-Defence Corps. A system of alarm signals also ensures that the nearest mobile troops come to their aid if the Vietcong attack. Where necessary, families living in isolated houses outside the perimeter are moved into huts within the stockade. The Vietcong are shut out, denied food, cut off from the population.

Defence Chain

Where they have been soundly constructed and linked in a logical chain of defence, the hamlets have proved their worth. Vietcong attacks have declined or ceased altogether, assassinations of local officials have dwindled—throughout the country 25 to 30 may be murdered each month, against more than five times that number a year ago.

There has been a general improvement. Today it is possible to drive in comparative safety across the country to the Cambodian frontier, or down to the coast for the weekend—at least in daylight. Enjoying heavy American support, the 300,000-strong Vietnamese National Army has on occasion inflicted stinging defeats on the Communists, capturing quantities of enemy arms, and the Vietcong are no longer absolute masters of the Cochinchina rice bowl.

But if the aggressive optimism of certain senior American officers seems justified in the map rooms of Saigon, down on the ground it sometimes appears absurdly exaggerated.

Victory does not depend on military success, but on the mood of the masses, on the morale of the ubiquitous farmer, and his conviction that the strategic hamlet organization offers him enough security and social justice to warrant his supporting President Diem against the Communists.

Inner Meaning

In the "black" area of Binh Duong province just north of Saigon, I sought to catch the inner meaning of their rehearsed remarks as black-pyramed peasants explained through a private interpreter what life in their hamlet was like.

"They say that although they did not have to pay for the barbed wire, they were forced to work for 12 days on the defences for nothing... those who were ordered to burn and leave their houses because they were too far from the watchtower don't feel that 1,000 piastres (about $5) is really adequate compensation for the loss of their homes."

And the Vietcong? "One of the Vietcong who recently gave himself up revealed that 12 peasants in this and the next-door hamlet had been 'inside' men all along, supplying the Communist guerrillas with food and information... the Vietcong regulars around here have four special liaison men who keep permanent contact with their supporters inside the hamlets. They say guerrillas are regrouping in the forest to the east and will probably launch big attacks later in the year... no, the peasants say they don't go to the Government information but much to find out what's going on. The Vietcong notice those who go there too often and it means a black mark..."

Hasty Preparation

For every well-organized and defended strategic hamlet scoured clean of Vietcong, four others may be like this, a Government official later admitted frankly. The rush to create these self-reliant, walled communities is like the abortive Great Leap Forward in China in 1958, with every official striving to please the President by building faster than his rival in the next province—at least on paper.

The result is too often a slapdash program for hastily regrouping remote village populations, throwing up bamboo fences which shut them in with the undetected Vietcong still among them, giving them colored portraits of the President, and classifying them "strategic."

And as the hamlets are often scattered haphazardly across the map instead of being systematically developed outwards from secure "white" areas, an additional strain is put on those who have to try to defend the mounting miles of inert stockade.

Today the Vietnamese Civil Guard, the Self-Defence Corps and most of the National Army are so spreadeagled over the country on local defence commitments that the average division rarely disposes of more than one battalion for prolonged mobile operations. Nothing could suit the Vietcong better.

Small Profit

Some progress has been made against the Vietcong, but the huge American military investment so far shows a ludicrously small profit. The war is costing Washington well over $1 million a day. There are about 15,000 U.S. Servicemen in Vietnam. Nearly 200 helicopters are in operation and at least 10 types of American conventional aircraft, ranging from transports to fighter-bombers.

The Vietcong on their side have received only a modest supply of Chinese bazookas and recoilless guns, and between 2,000 and 3,000 men from Communist North Vietnam, according to intelligence sources. Armed mainly with captured and home-made weapons, they dominate more than one-third of the country.

Saigon has claimed that in 1962 anti-Communist forces eliminated some 30,000 Vietcong regulars and regional troops. Yet it is estimated that the number of guerrillas has risen in the past 12 months from 18,000 to nearly 25,000, and that these may be actively supported by as many as 300,000 sympathizers.

The Government has announced that during March, 1,760 Vietcong were killed for the loss of 390 of its own men. But the ratio is suspect. Although earlier the National Army was capturing two of the enemy's weapons for the loss of one of its own, the figure has since reverted to one-to-one.

Not Reliable

This is the only reliable evidence to go by in a war notable for its excitable arithmetic. Some Vietnamese military experts believe that only about 40 per cent of all enemy casualties claimed are Vietcong, and that the rest are harmless peasants.

The Communists are not suffering as much as the statistics indicate, and they can tear out the perimeter defences of a strategic hamlet and then allegedly presagging its youth into their service without a single shot being fired by its defenders.

Nevertheless, for the first time there is a feeling among the more cautious foreign observers that the wheels of the Vietnamese war machine are at least gripping, that their first grinding quarter-turn towards victory over the Vietcong at least proves that it is attainable, however far away it may still be.

Everything now depends on whether the war-weary Vietnamese and their high-paying financial backers in Washington can stand the excruciating slowness of the advance. "We are at the beginning of the beginning" an official in Saigon told me—modestly, yet with a hint of triumph in his voice. But there are too many who believe that they should have long since reached the beginning of the end.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA—What kind of trade turkey did Mike Pearson talk to Jack Kennedy at Hyannis Port? What's behind the generalities of the official communiqué they handed to us on Saturday, before we took off for the return flight to Ottawa?

First, Prime Minister Pearson told President Kennedy most emphatically that Canada wants in on the Kennedy plan of world trade expansion through across-the-board slashes of up to 50 per cent in national tariffs, but with negotiated exceptions.

Second, Pearson made the point that Canada wants to be not merely another participant, but a partner of the United States in a joint North American approach to the other members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at the meeting starting at Geneva on Thursday. Through such partnership, Pearson hopes to have Canada's main exports such as wheat, lumber and industrial raw materials included in the package on which the U.S. will demand a 50 per cent cut in foreign tariffs.

It would obviously do Canada little good if the U.S. allowed European nations to make minimal or no tariff cuts on commodities which, while unimportant to the U.S., are vital to Canada. The U.S. is a net importer of industrial raw materials. So unless Pearson was able to persuade Kennedy to throw American weight behind Canada's needs from the across-the-board approach at GATT, Canada is apt to fare rather poorly.

When the president's special trade emissary, Christian Herter, came here a fortnight ago for preliminary talks on how Canada might be associated with the U.S. in the bid at Geneva, he and Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp failed to agree on the meaning of a vital section of the U.S. Trade Expansion Act.

Herter took the view that U.S. tariff cuts of up to 50 per cent would have to be matched by tariff cuts of the same percentage by other nations.

This would be greatly to Canada's disadvantage. On trade between Canada and the U.S., it would mean that U.S. manufactured goods could flood into Canada and overwhelm our protected industries. The latter, with their high costs due to small domestic markets, could not hope to compete in the U.S. market even with U.S. tariffs slashed. On trade with Europe, it would mean that while we cut our high tariffs on European manufactures by, say, 50 per cent, European countries would cut their low tariffs on raw materials by 50 per cent. This also would leave Canada with the very short end of the stick, because 50 per cent of a large figure is a lot more than 50 per cent of a small figure.

Sharp made the argument that the U.S. Trade Expansion Act does not require equal percentage cuts. Instead, it authorizes the president to cut U.S. tariffs by up to 50 per cent if other countries make compensatory concessions. But Sharp's point is that, in a case where a foreign country agrees to make a 50 per cent cut in its low tariff against Canada's main exports of raw materials, an adequate compensatory action by Canada might be a 10 per cent reduction in the Canadian tariff against manufactured goods. Certainly it wouldn't be anything like 50 per cent. This is a matter vital to Canada's hopes to benefit from the Kennedy plan, and underlay all of the talking that the prime minister and the president did on trade in their 24-hour talkathon at Hyannis Port.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

By DICK WEST

Upward and Onward

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hard on the heels of the American expedition to Mt. Everest comes news of another expedition that also was hard on the heels.

An intrepid group, of which this correspondent was a member, has just returned from the summit of Old Rag Mountain, Virginia.

That craggy, forbidding pinnacle, known as "the roof of Madison County," had previously been conquered only by approximately 325,275 Americans, give or take a Brownie troop and the Young Republicans Club.

Setting forth from Washington, which is the capital of the United States, we crossed the wide Potomac, a river, and drove through a region of thick, virgin suburbs.

To our delight, the roads were passable. We had been warned that they might be clogged with native vehicles.

Eventually we came to the foothills of the Blue Ridge chain and established a base camp where we took on extra supplies of ginger ale and cheese crackers.

By unanimous agreement, the post of group leader was assigned to Myron Glaser, a travel writer who was instrumental in organizing the expedition.

Glaser was chosen mainly because he has a pair of shoes with leather laces. Nothing inspires confidence like leather shoelaces.

Having assured ourselves that everything was in order, we began our ascent, our eyes fixed on the distant summit.

After running into a couple of trees, we took our eyes off the summit and began to watch where we were going.

Among mountain climbers, there is a closeness and camaraderie that sort of brings a lump to your throat, particularly when you have been eating cheese crackers.

It would be a pity if the fraternal spirit that bound our group and made it possible for us to achieve our goal were shattered by rival claims over who beat whom to the summit.

It really doesn't matter which of us was approximately the 325,276th American to conquer Old Rag.

Someone had to be content with being approximately the 325,277th, the 325,278th, etc. There wasn't room up there for everybody at the same time. Besides that, crowds make me nervous.

Rather than bicker over individual credit, I propose to end my account of the expedition on a philosophic note.

Why would a man of sedentary habits lame himself with blistered heels, stiff joints and sore muscles climbing a mountain?

My wife asked me that question and I responded with the traditional reply.

"Because," I said, "I'm stupid."

Showy Annuals Like Sunshine

Bedding plants are the favorite topic in the home gardener's conversation these sunny May days.

These showy summer annuals like as much sunshine as possible, and some do quite well in rather dry positions.

The small marigolds, for instance, and alyssum, portulaca and candytuft are all recommended for hot, dry borders and even sloping banks.

They are indeed useful and colorful for these situations but when the small plants are first put out into the garden they must have enough moisture supplied in the soil to enable them to make new roots.

Once the plants are established as shown by increase in size and the development of flower buds, water need becomes really dry or growth appears to be at a standstill.

We must not expect these dry-spot annuals to make a sizeable plant without a little assistance while they are young. Later in the summer, they will respond well to one feeding of a liquid fertilizer watered around the plants.

While most of our summer bedding plants make startling displays for us in quite ordinary soil and often under quite adverse conditions, they will repay the occasional thorough soaking during a dry spell.

Plants such as salvias and zinnias continue producing more and more blooms right up to frost if given two liquid feedings. The first can be after the early flowers are well open, and the second about the middle of July.

MDs Ask Tax Relief For Advanced Study

TORONTO (CP)—The College of General Practice of Canada Monday sought income tax relief for its members seeking advanced and refresher courses on the grounds that "no individual can be of maximum service to his patients without further study."

The college, which insists that general practitioners complete at least 100 hours of approved study every two years to maintain membership, went before the royal commission on taxation to suggest, in effect, that tax incentives be dangled before more doctors.

The college has 2,375 members, and about 75 lose membership each year because they do not complete the prescribed courses. Lack of tax relief for expenses was said to be a major reason.

Under existing tax regulations, doctors can claim expenses for attending two medical conventions each year.

But college president Dr. J. T. McCullough told the commissioners' conventions do not provide enough necessary courses and lectures for doctors.

"There's a tendency to downgrade the conventions in favor of organized courses," he said.

If doctors could claim tax deductions for attending such organized courses, it would be a "powerful stimulus" for more of them to keep up to date.

He said medical knowledge doubles about every 10 years.

Threat to Whisky Quality Hits U.K. Fluorides Plan

LONDON (Reuters)—North America's perennial fluoridation controversy is flaring here with some typically British twists to by now long-established arguments.

A parliamentary subcommittee triggered the fight last year when it came out in favor of introducing sodium fluorides to public water supplies to counteract tooth decay.

The study committee was backed up health experts and British medical opinion, following a five-year test which showed dental decay in children was reduced by as much as two-thirds by the test program.

But a belligerent section of public opinion, sensitive to its rights, swarmed to battle and in Scotland particularly found a powerful weapon.

WHISKY THREAT

How powerful was illustrated when Aberdeen hastily shelved a fluoridation proposal for two years, after a councillor warned it would threaten the quality of the city's best loved, and most profitable product—Scotch whisky.

The anti-fluoridationists argued the superb quality of local whisky could not fail to suffer from the introduction of "poisonous" chemicals in the city's water supply. Telling reference was made to the fact that whisky exports brought Britain $207,000,000 in 1961, much of it from North America.

Britain's Parliament ordered tests in 1953 of fluorides properties in reducing tooth decay.

CUT DECAY

Four towns offered themselves as test centres. They were Kilmarnock again, after second thoughts; Anglesey, an island off the Welsh coast; Andover, a rural town in southern England, and Watford, an industrial town on the outskirts of London.

In Andover, the fight raged throughout the experiment. A former mayor dug a well in his garden to have a supply of "pure" water. A highly vociferous anti-fluoridation association was formed, and was soon copied in other centres throughout the country. The next step was inevitable in Britain—for formation of a national Pure Water Association.

The tests showed tooth decay was greatly reduced in test towns, but the Pure Water Association promptly switched its guns on what it described as a threat to an individual's right to authorize his own medical treatment.

Then Health Minister Enoch Powell announced he would approve all municipal applications to fluoridate water and finance any court actions which might ensue.

RIGHTS ISSUE

He and Britain's dentists remained unimpressed by the association's argument that a cup of tea contained fluorides.

Among rights-conscious Englishmen, the anti-fluoridationists have their strongest appeal in the suggestion that the common man is being deprived of a voice in his own welfare.

But in Scotland, the arguments of Aberdeen carry much weight.

Said an Aberdonian councillor recently: "Every Scotsman's dream is to turn on a tap one day and find whisky pouring from it. Instead, with fluoridation, he might find a kind of adulterated porridge."

Economy Shows Marked Upswing

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Canadian production, new orders and employment made "marked gains" in April over March, according to the latest survey of the Canadian Association of Purchasing Agents.

The Canadian group's survey echoes that recently released by its counterpart in Gordon Bell the U.S. and indicates a generally strong tone to the whole North American economy.

It is noted that Canadian prices were again a little higher last month and inventory building was edging ahead.

New orders increased for 38 per cent of reporting companies, 41 per cent had higher production and employment picked up for 34 per cent. The round of price decreases on polyethylene along with a decrease in styrene price in the U.S. could mean a general round of price reductions for most plastic materials.

Asked about the outlook for the next six months, manufacturing and processing companies were highly optimistic, the CAPA stated.

The Canadian federal tax burden on family income is considerably above that in the U.S., according to a new study just published by CCH Canadian Ltd., Toronto tax reporting firm.

The Canadian levy, however, is considerably below that of the United Kingdom.

A married man with five children under 11 pays $208 to the Canadian income tax collector on a $5,000 income, while his counterpart south of the border pays only $60. In Britain, the tax bill would be $400.

At the $10,000 income level, the same Canadian father pays $1,244 compared to the American's payment of $976 and the Briton's $1,901.

The only area where a Canadian head of family in the $5,000 and under bracket gets a break is when he keeps his family down to two children.

At $3,000 income level he would pay $42, at $4,000 $191 and at $5,000 $370, compared with $65, $245 and $420 respectively for the American.

In effect, though, it would seem that U.S. tax authorities subsidize larger families to a considerable degree while the Canadian with a larger family pays quite stiff taxes.

Admittedly the Canadian family allowance for children under 16 makes up some, but not all, of the difference between Canadian and U.S. tax figures.

The only Canadians who have a decided advantage over Americans in tax levies are single persons. Bachelors, in fact, are better off tax-wise in Canada than either the U.S. or Britain.

Canadawide Investments Ltd. of Toronto has acquired 1,107,454 shares or 46.1 per cent of Charter Oil Co. Ltd. of Vancouver outstanding shares as a result of an offer made in March.

The former charter board has been replaced by representatives of Canadawide.

The Toronto firm had offered $1.50 U.S. or $1.62 Canadian for the shares.

RALPH D. BAKER

'Tyranny Through Democracy'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian businessmen could be brain-washing themselves into a police state, Ralph D. Baker, president and managing director of Standard Oil of British Columbia, warned Monday.

Addressing the Vancouver Board of Trade, he said this is what happens when businessmen extol freedom and at the same time vote for more restraints upon it.

He listed such restraints as restrictions on hours of sale and on trading stamps, fruit and vegetable marketing boards, Sunday blue laws and zoning regulations.

"Since these are things which often unnecessarily and unjustifiably restrain the liberties and rights of the individual," he said, "what we have done and are doing in this area might be viewed as an interesting exercise in how to impose tyranny by democratic process."

NOT FORCED

The restrictions had not been forced on the business community. The community had asked for them.

"We know full well that the heart and core of free enterprise is the element of free competition, yet we petition and support these legal restraints upon both freedom and competition."

"Surely we can differentiate between selfishness and bigotry on the one hand and public interest on the other," he said.

"Shouldn't we proclaim our belief that no competitor should be denied the right to offer in greater degree, variety or convenience, any of those things a customer may legitimately want or seek?"

Housewife Efficient Business Regulator

VANCOUVER (CP) — A St. Louis credit executive said Monday that the best regulator in the business is the housewife and right now she feels confident about the economy.

William Blake, executive vice-president of the International Consumer Credit Association, said the housewife can take a great deal of the credit for the fact that the United States is entering an economic boom with no pitfalls in sight.

In an interview—Mr. Blake is here for the association's Pacific Northwest conference—he said he was against artificial controls of credit.

"Families are pretty smart. They know if they are over-spending or over-saving. The best regulator of the family budget is the housewife. She is undoubtedly the controlling factor in consumer purchasing."

Personal savings in the U.S. have been running at about 7 per cent of take-home pay, he said. This was "too high a level."

"We've been urging people to spend 1 per cent more of their take-home pay. That's enough to put $12,000,000,000 into the economy."

Because this has been done, "we're in a boom period, with rising sales of autos, durable goods and services."

"Savings have dropped toward a more normal 5 or 6 per cent of take-home pay."

"The consumer is his own best judge of spending," Mr. Blake said.

"There is a lot of psychology involved. If people think times are prosperous, they'll spend more. If they are uncertain or doubtful, they'll spend less and save more."

Recessions, said Mr. Blake, are caused "strictly by negative thinkers."

Summer Start Promised On Dam Road

The government will start work this summer on a new road and bridge to the Peace River dam site, Premier Bennett announced Monday.

The bridge, to cross the river at Hudson Hope, is under design now, Mr. Bennett said.

Work on a 40-mile road from Chetwynd on the PGE Railway to Hudson Hope will start in summer.

At present only access to the Portage Mountain dam site is by ferry and a bridge on the road from Fort St. John.

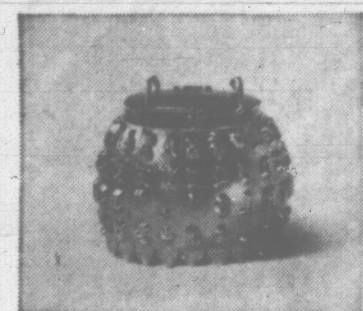

Goodwill Mission Reaches Scotland

GLASGOW, Scotland (CP) — A 24-member party of Canadian businessmen arrived Monday for a three-day goodwill mission to Scotland.

They flew here from Germany. They plan to spend two days here and go on to Edinburgh.

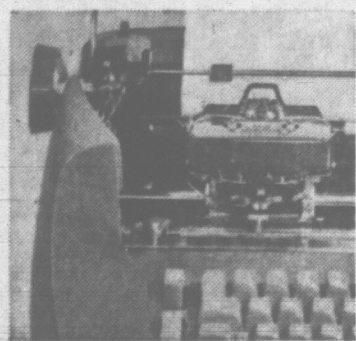

The party includes Reginald T. Rose, director and general manager of the Vancouver Board of Trade, and Mayor William Rathie of Vancouver.

IBM eliminates 700 parts to invent world's fastest, most mistake-proof typewriter

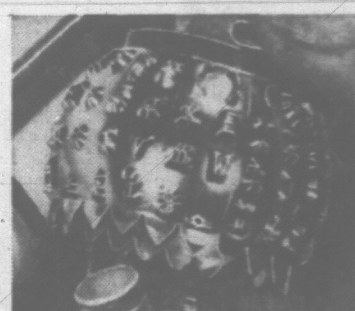

This type core (shown above in actual size) is the heart of an entirely new kind of typewriter, the IBM Selectric. The Selectric has 700 fewer parts than conventional typewriters. No type bars. No moving carriage. When a secretary types with the new IBM Selectric, the type core writes across the paper with electrifying speed. It prints all the characters as it spins, tilts and rocks faster than the eye can follow. The carriage does not move. Instead the core and ribbon carriage move together across the page. At the touch of the return key, they dart instantly back to the left margin, ready to start again. No carriage crash. No vibration. No creeping or wobbling.

The ingenious type core hugs the paper, never more than a fraction of an inch away. Naturally, the type core is able to type much quicker than ordinary type bars which must travel several inches to reach the paper. Operated electronically, the Selectric can type ten letters per second, faster than it's possible to read. It's the world's fastest typewriter.

While the Selectric makes speed easier, it makes mistakes harder. If, for instance, two characters are pressed almost simultaneously, the Selectric stores one character while it prints the other. It blends the varying peaks and valleys of fingertip motion into a steady, singing rhythm that makes typing faster and easier. No jamming. No skipping spaces. No overlapping characters. It's the world's most mistake-proof typewriter.

Now you can make important points look more important with changeable type styles. You can use one type style for paragraph headings and a different type style for text. Or you can use one type style for personal letters, another style for business correspondence. This has never before been possible on the same typewriter. You change types by switching the type core. Takes only ten seconds.

You can change ribbon colours just as quickly. The complete ribbon cartridge snaps in with one hand and it's sealed so your fingers never touch the ink.

The IBM Selectric is a typewriter you must see to honestly appreciate. Call your IBM representative today for a demonstration. He's listed in the Yellow Pages of your telephone book.

Liberals Confident Of Nuclear Success

By DAVE McINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals apparently aren't spending any sleepless nights worrying about how the new Parliament will receive their nuclear policy. Their minority position in the Commons doesn't particularly trouble them, on this issue at least, because they feel they can count on some support among the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties.

It looks as if the 17-member New Democratic Party is the only group which may be willing to raise the nuclear issue as a non-confidence motion.

Prime Minister Pearson has said Parliament will have a chance to deal with defence policies within a month of opening day, Thursday.

There are several ways in which the opposition could bring up the subject. But presumably the government will do so itself through a debatable motion, to establish a special Commons defence committee.

Mr. Pearson has said there will be plenty of opportunities for debate on defence, including nuclear weapons, before any nuclear warheads are made available to Canadian forces. It is likely that at least one defence debate will take place before Canada signs a nuclear custody - and - control agreement with the United States.

An interesting part of any defence debate would be the position of former defence minister Harkness, Conservative MP for Calgary North.

Mr. Harkness resigned from the cabinet because then prime minister Diefenbaker wouldn't obtain nuclear warheads as soon as the carriers for them were ready.

But he has also derided the Liberal policy as acceptance of nuclear weapons and then an immediate search for the quickest way to get rid of them.

Parliament probably will want to take a pretty close look at defence because there has been no defence white paper since May 1, 1961, and the 1962-63 defence budget of $1,590,000,000 was never approved by Parliament.

The Conservatives had prepared a 1963-64 defence budget of about $1,550,000,000 but it was never presented to Parliament. The Liberals' defence budget is not likely to vary much from this amount.

Residents Should Pay On Road Jobs'

A renewed effort was made Monday by Oak Bay councillor Fred Robinson to have road resurfacing jobs done through local improvement by-laws.

An earlier attempt to rebuild streets this way was roundly rejected by residents who would have to pay a substantial share.

At a meeting of Oak Bay works committee, engineer Geoffrey White said complaints are growing about the rough condition of Newport—a bus route—and Monterey south of Oak Bay Avenue.

Monterey north of the avenue was one street council sought to have improved earlier this year.

The new street jobs were proposed to be financed out of general revenue.

"Maybe I'm going to swim around in this pool by myself, but I think they should be local improvements," Coun. Robinson said.

Arson Suspected

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A three-storey building containing three businesses was destroyed Monday night in a fire which caused loss estimated at about $200,000.

NORAD INSTALLATION MOVED TO NORTH BAY

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—The headquarters of the northern region of North American Air Defence Command was officially transferred to the first "hardened" site in the NORAD complex today.

Transfer of northern region headquarters to facilities carved deep in the hardrock near Trout Lake, just outside North Bay, makes this northern Ontario city second in importance only to Colorado Springs, Col., within the air defence system.

No Love for Nincompoops

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto psychiatrist envisages the day when government, confronted by growing numbers of mental cripples, will dictate marriages and conceptions to its people.

Dr. John Fotheringham, a member of the mental retardation unit of the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, raised the possibility Monday because of what he said is the increase in both apparent and real cases of mental retardation.

With automation already displacing large numbers of unskilled or uneducated workers, and the situation likely to become more serious in the future, the mentally handicapped will have fewer opportunities of finding work.

He told the three-day annual conference of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies that such measures as large-scale birth control or approved mating seasons may be necessary unless medical science comes up with an answer to the factors which breed mental handicaps.

Increasing numbers of people who could cope with their handicap in a less complex world now are unable to adapt, Dr. Fotheringham said. In addition, doctors now prolong the life of many — mongoloids, premature and defective babies, and other mental incompetents — who formerly did not survive.

Something all Newlyweds should know

..... about financial success. The foundation of this much-sought-after goal is financial security and an ideal way to achieve security is through life insurance.

Should you buy now? Or can it be put off safely if both husband and bride are working? The wise thing is to buy now. Postponement till you're older means higher premiums and the risk of poor health striking in the meantime. Someday too, that second income will stop, making it doubly important that a new mother be guaranteed a living income—an income enabling her to devote full time to raising that precious new addition.

The best buy for the young family is permanent insurance. It provides that most important guarantee of family income. In addition, it's a savings plan providing cash in an emergency and funds for long-range objectives such as a university education for a son.

Call the Man from Manufacturers about financial success through insurance. You'll find him a competent and friendly adviser.

Rambler Seats — comfortable enough to put you to sleep (or make you enjoy staying awake)

Riding in a Ramblar you can lean all the way back and relax. Those reclining seats convert instantly into a lazy nap couch. If you're driving, you can adjust the seat to the best position for you. It doesn't matter if you're 5 foot 2 or 6 foot 4, you get comfort.

For a few extra dollars you can have foam-padded, adjustable headrests installed in your Ramblar. Not only do they give you added support, they're a safety feature you won't get on any other car.

Everybody talks about comfort but nobody does as much about it as Ramblar. For what it's worth, our head-room, hip-room and leg-room is equal to or better than other standard size cars. But Ramblar also gives you well cushioned chair-height seats in a car that rides steady, rides smooth.

Unusual is the word for the number of special features you get in a Ramblar. There's quite an impressive list that includes low price, a guaranteed muffler, battery and coolant, the best rustproofing and exceptional mileage. You also have a good assortment of models to choose from. Take your pick of a convertible, hardtop, sedan or wagon. See them all at your nearest Ramblar dealer's.

Have a test rest on one of our reclining seats soon.

Ferries Need New Wharf

The Toll Authority would like to find a new ferry terminal nearer Vancouver than Horseshoe Bay, Premier Bennett indicated Monday.

"We would like to get a shorter distance," he said. He was commenting on a North Vancouver Chamber of Commerce suggestion that the government ferries dock at the terminal on the North Shore once used by the Burrard Inlet ferries to downtown Vancouver.

"Any sites suggested, we would look into the practicality and practicability and feasibility," said Mr. Bennett.

He said this would include the possibility of a terminal in the Point Grey area.

Some time ago Mr. Bennett ruled out the possibility of going right to downtown Vancouver where the CPR ferry from Nanaimo docks.

Mr. Bennett said that the Toll Authority ferry services took in gross revenue totalling $1,025,000 in the first month of the new fiscal year—April.

This is a 31 per cent increase from 1962. He did not disclose how much profits this was, but said the Toll Authority is "in the black anyway."

"Of course every time we get a new ship it makes it more difficult to break even," he said.

However, the premier said the government does not want to boost fares—"ever."

"Some day we'll want to reduce them."

Ship Crews Work Now, Relax Later

B.C. ferry crews Wednesday start a new shift system which will be gruelling for a month, but will give them plenty of time off in winter.

Details of the shift were explained by an official of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, which earlier this year met government representatives in an effort to iron out complaints about long hours.

A number of complaints about "grave" conditions have also been received by this newspaper.

AVERAGE 40 HOURS

However, averaged over a full year, the new shift system will mean ferry crews work slightly less than 40 hours a week, the BCGEA official said.

The starting period, he conceded, is "pretty rugged"—eight hour shifts for 34 days before two days' holiday.

The following month shifts will be cut to 16 days with four days off.

"I haven't heard any complaints about that," the BCGEA man said.

Last summer ferry crews worked up to 18 days before getting only one day off, he said.

He pointed out that if the ferry service hired relief crews for summer duty it would then be forced to have layoffs in the winter months.

WAGE ISSUE

Stalemate May Close Market

A meat cutters' strike against Alberta Meat Market was a week old Monday and still without sign on either side of re-opening negotiations.

Store owner John Williams said he is considering closing the retail portion of his business at 1811 Cook Street.

He said picketing at the store front has brought a sharp decline in retail trade, although this accounts for only 10 per cent of his normal business.

The other 90 per cent of trade is in supplying wholesale markets, which the members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, Local 212, have also tried to discourage, he said.

COMPETITION

The union contends that Alberta Meat Market is direct competition to the rest of the organized butcher workmen in Greater Victoria, although this operation is the only independent in a field dominated by super market and department store outlets.

It also argues that Mr. Williams discriminated against five of his 13 employees by releasing them from their jobs as an economy measure. This could have been done more fairly under the union contract, representative George Johnston said.

Mr. Williams said he could not afford the union's wage request, backed by a conciliation report, which would add $10 a week to the $102 paid male employees and $74 paid to women.

Besides the actual wages, employees got another $5 a week average fringe benefits for their 40 hours' employment, he said.

RCAF Bombed In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A dynamite charge planted or thrown at the rear of an RCAF building in northwest Montreal Monday drilled a hole through the building's wall but caused no injuries.

The device tore a hole two feet in diameter at the rear of the four-storey brick RCAF 11th Technical Services Unit and broke windows in the five-storey commercial building across the street and in apartment buildings in the area at Wilderton and Bates Road, in northwest Montreal at the edge of suburban town of Mount Royal.

Anglican, Catholic Clergy Set Historic B.C. Parley

VANCOUVER (CP)—Clergy from the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches will meet here later this month in the first large-scale dialogue between the two communions ever held in Western Canada.

The conversations, first suggested at a refresher course for Anglican clergies here last summer, will be held at St. Mark's Roman Catholic College in the University of British Columbia May 20-22.

Among the 80 or more clergy to be present are Rt. Rev. Godfrey Gower, Anglican Bishop of New Westminster; Most Rev. Martin M. Johnson, Roman Catholic Coadjutor Archbishop of Vancouver, and Most Rev. Remi de Roo, Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria.

Main speakers will include Rev. Eugene Fairweather of Trinity College (Anglican), Toronto, and Rt. Rev. Christopher Butler, abbot of the British Benedictine Abbey of Downside, Bath.

Another of those present will be the abbot's brother, Canon Hilary Butler, canon-lecturer of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria.

Both were brought up as Anglicans and both trained for the Anglican priesthood, Christopher becoming a Roman Catholic prior to his ordination.

Canon Hilary said he and his brother have remained "very affectionate despite our division."

FOLLOWED THE TRUTH

"We both followed the truth as we saw it. But we still have many friendly discussions."

"Our points of contact far outweigh our differences."

Three major topics will come under discussion: The Papacy, the Mass and the Virgin Mary.

Most Rev. William Mark Duke, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Vancouver, said similar discussions were held in Toronto recently but that the conference is the first of its kind in B.C.

Rev. Albert Elsenring, a native of Switzerland now rector of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church, Vancouver, said dialogues between Protestants and Catholics "may seem extraordinary in Canada, but they have been going on ever since the Second World War in Europe."

Rev. W. E. Lowe of Christ The King Anglican Church, Vancouver, said the conference should not be interpreted as any kind of Anglican capitulation to Catholicism.

"Rather," he said, "It is a joint investigation of our two faiths."

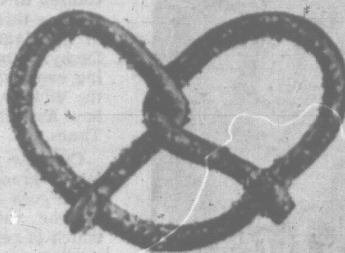

Denied Court Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marcos Perez Jimenez, former Venezuelan dictator, Monday was denied a Supreme Court review of a decision that he may be extradited from Florida to Venezuela where he is charged with embezzlement.

WORKER NEED NOT PAY DUES FOR POLITICS IN U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that a railroad worker cannot be forced to pay that portion of his union dues which might be used for political purposes.

The ruling affected specifically about 30 North Carolina employees of the Southern Railway. They have contended it would be illegal to force them to pay dues to unions when they opposed any use of such dues money by unions for political purposes.

Amsterdam International Airport is KLM's home base. KLM has carried over 12 million passengers a total of 14½ billion passenger miles.

KLM offers 9 weekly flights from Montreal, 4 daily flights from New York during peak Summer season

During Summer, at least 35 KLM flights a week cross the Atlantic to Europe. This gives you a choice of 4 or more flights a day, plus convenient connections at Amsterdam. KLM's European flights in and out of Amsterdam are timed to connect with KLM flights to and from Montreal and New York. Your Travel Agent has all the details. Ask him.

1. KLM carries an average of 3830 passengers every day—about twice the capacity of a big ocean liner. KLM has an electro-mechanical check-in system at Amsterdam International Airport. This system reduces check-in time per passenger to a minimum. It also mechanically produces a load sheet and thus speeds loading time. Every KLM sales office in Canada gets up-to-the-minute space availability information every day on KLM connecting flights.
2. Your KLM crew goes to work two hours before your plane takes off. They finish about an hour after you have arrived at your destination. Significant comment: a veteran KLM pilot sums up his job in these words:—"Being a jet pilot is just like being a concert pianist. You have to keep on practicing even when you're perfect."
3. KLM sets very high standards for its cabin crews. They must be pleasant, capable, polite—in short, ideal hosts and hostesses. They are trained to anticipate passengers' wants. Quite a few KLM stewards and stewardesses speak five or six languages. Some speak seven or eight. They must at least speak Dutch, English, French and German.
4. A large percentage of KLM pilots are family men. 88.1% are married, 79.1% of them are fathers. For some pilots, loyalty to KLM is a family affair. Three are sons of former KLM pilots. There are four pairs of brothers flying for KLM. One of these pairs has a third brother who is a pursuer. KLM pilots are all well educated. Three of them are doctors of law.
5. KLM Economy Class passengers enjoy exactly the same friendly personal attention as First Class passengers do. The cuisine is simpler, of course, but comes from the same chefs and the same kitchens, and wines and other drinks are available at nominal charge. For instance: a quarter bottle of top quality champagne costs just 75 cents and a glass of good Scotch whisky is just 60 cents on KLM's trans-Atlantic routes.
6. KLM has a permanent wine-tasting committee of six people. It meets once a year to judge red wines and twice a year to judge white wines. Tasting is done blind. Nobody on the committee knows the vintage or the price. KLM wines are chosen for quality alone. Quick-ripening wines are selected because they travel well. There is no risk of sediment.

7. One of the skills of KLM chefs is knowing what passengers are most likely to choose from a menu. This takes years of experience. You always have a good chance of getting a dish you like on a KLM flight. KLM prepares special diet food for passengers who request it as they book their seats. KLM pursers are always briefed on these special diets before passengers come aboard.
8. On all scheduled KLM flights, each passenger has his own individual table, whether he flies Tourist, Economy or First Class. On KLM's intercontinental First Class flights, you get slippers, hot towels, champagne and other wines "on the house".
9. The cabin of a DC-8 jet is 12 feet wide. This is wide enough to take 6 seats abreast comfortably. KLM's First Class cabins have only 4 seats abreast. KLM's DC-8 jets have two pantries—for faster service, five flush toilets and several cloakrooms, the cabin, air-conditioned on the ground as well as aloft, gets a fresh supply of air every three minutes.
10. Travelling First Class on a KLM DC-8 jet, you sit in unstinted comfort. Your seat is as wide as an armchair, has built-in table lamp, pre-focused reading light, air blower and finger-tip control panel. Each seat cost KLM U.S. $1,500. Every KLM DC-8 jet has a luxuriously appointed lounge, located in First Class. It is a perfect place to meet your fellow passengers over free drinks.
11. Several reigning monarchs and their families have used KLM's charter services. KLM charter planes are flown by the same full-qualified and experienced crews as scheduled flights. KLM's don't-take-any-risks maintenance applies to all its aircraft—charter or otherwise.
12. KLM's biggest charter contract was concluded with an oil company for the transportation of its employees and equipment. It lasted six years. KLM operates about 500 charter flights a year across the North Atlantic and about 1500 a year all over the world. KLM charter service is available all year round.
13. "KLM Gateway to Travel Enchantment" is an invaluable booklet packed with useful information to help you plan your European vacation. As well as containing details on a wide range of KLM tours and multi-stopover possibilities, it also includes tips on Amsterdam International Airport's tax-free shopping facilities, how to rent a car, etc. All you need to do to get your free copy is to complete and mail the coupon at the bottom of this advertisement.
14. "What You Should Know About Reliable KLM When Planning Your Trip To Europe" is another booklet that tells you everything you should know about KLM and KLM's unsurpassed service. You'll find that it's full of worthwhile information on how to make your European trip just that much more enjoyable. To get your free copy, simply complete and mail the attached coupon.
15. KLM flies to every continent in the world. KLM has been established in Canada since 1946 and now has offices in principal Canadian cities. Something worth noting: KLM has daily flights out of Montreal and New York for Europe. During the peak Summer season, you can choose from nine weekly flights from Montreal and four daily flights from New York.
16. See your Travel Agent. Having themselves been professionals in the field of air transportation for 44 years, KLM recognize that it takes professionals to plan trips efficiently. In every city in Canada, KLM is represented by a professional—your Travel Agent.

Handicapped Children's Derby Offers Bold Challenge

GEORGE CROMBIE

George Crombie, who earns his dollars as a salesman, is working overtime these days on his biggest-ever selling job and hoping to net nothing but satisfaction.

A shoe salesman who specializes in children's footwear, George this year is chairman of the Handicapped Children's Derby, a two-day salmon-fishing event sponsored jointly by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and The Daily Times.

Crombie is wearing out a lot of grade "A" sole leather as he goes about selling people on the value of the derby, which is replacing two annual angling competitions formerly staged by the VSIAA.

It will take the place of both the Solarium Derby and the Cerebral Palsy Derby, thus channeling the energies of Saanich Inlet sportsmen into one charity event. The famous Solarium salmon scramble, of course, was the big one. Co-sponsored by the VSIAA and Times, it raised more than $83,000 for the Queen Alexandra Solarium from the time it was launched in 1946.

The Cerebral Palsy Derby, which will still receive a major portion of proceeds from the new event, and the contribution may be as large as usual since the anglers believe they can interest more people by staging one major derby instead of two.

They'll put the show on the water at Saanich Inlet Saturday and Sunday, July 27 and 28, and on those days not all the rewards will be going to handicapped children. Fishermen will be matching skills for at least 50 prizes, topped by a 12-foot car-top boat. And everybody who purchases a derby ticket will be eligible to win the consolation award—a new automobile.

Now in his fifth year as a member of the VSIAA, Crombie has been head man for two previous Inlet derbies.

"But I've always wanted to work on a charity derby," he says. "Now that I have my wish I hope we'll be able to make this derby one of the most successful we've ever had. This year it is especially important since it is taking the place of two derbies."

A native of Lethbridge who moved to Victoria 12 years ago, George used to get his recreational kicks from golf and bowling. That all changed five years ago when he and his wife, Estelle, acquired a house at Brentwood Bay, met Stan Williams and discovered that fishing can be fun.

Now there is no time for golf ("anyway, I was a 100 golfer") or bowling, but Crombie admits he is still looking for his first big salmon. That could be because he is as interested in VSIAA activities as he is in chasing fish, and because, like Williams, he uses light tackle and concentrates on grise, coho and cruising.

His derby job is going to wipe out most of his fishing time until July has departed, but Crombie doesn't mind.

"I'm very pleased to have the opportunity to do something that will help handicapped youngsters," he said Monday. "I don't really have to sell the derby. The reason for it does that. My main job is to let people know about the derby and make tickets available to them."

"We're doing something on the derby every day now and we'll be staging an Anglers-Times charity dance at Brentwood Community Hall June 8.

Since all our directors have regular jobs, we have one little problem. We would like volunteers to occasionally sell derby tickets during the day. Anybody willing to help can reach me at 474-1994.

"In my job as a shoe salesman," he added, "I see a lot of children who are handicapped by crippled legs or feet. Many could have been helped by treatment at the Solarium."

"I often see examples of what wonderful things can be done to help children overcome handicaps and I know how much this derby can help them."

"It may be a lot of work, but it's worth every minute I can spend on it."

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

"Clearly the blue river chimes in its flowing Under my eye; Warmly and broadly the south winds are blowing Over the sky. One after another the white clouds are fleeting; Every heart this May morning in joyance is beating Full merrily; Yet all things must die."

So wrote... Ivan Lord Temple? No, Alfred Lord Tennyson, a couple of centuries ago. But they sum up the feelings of Ivan Lord this week as he prepared to take off for Brandon and the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

You may be wondering why the CAHA holds its meetings in May instead of December when hockey is in full bloom. You wouldn't wonder if you ever spent a December night in Brandon. It's so cold they put things in the refrigerator to thaw out. Even brass monkeys give Brandon the go-by in December.

Ice Is Very Important, Especially...

Mr. Temple normally looks upon the CAHA meetings with some relish. Delegates usually work fiendishly on such problems as whether it would be better to use square pucks instead of round ones and has anybody ordered the ice (cubed)?

This year, though, there is really urgent business. It involves Trail Smoke Eaters and a little matter of money. The CAHA has some and Trail wants some. The Smokies would also like to pare $1,000 from the bankroll of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, otherwise spelled Ivan Temple.

The Smoke Eaters, you will recall, were the CAHA's contribution to the world hockey championships at Stockholm last winter. They finished well back and well beaten, leaving a kind of fragrance behind them.

Some people—including 17,123,645 Canadians—were so distressed they thought Trail should have paid it its own way. The way the Smokies told it, they did just that. Their leader, a Mr. Robert Kromm, repeatedly referred to the CAHA fondly, garnishing his eulogy with expressions like "cheapskates" and "skinflints."

In all his inimitable press releases Kromm omitted to mention certain points. Like the meeting in Toronto where Trail officials and the CAHA came to a "mutual and friendly" understanding on the budget for the tour.

Like the CAHA picking up the tab to take Kromm to Winnipeg to have a peak at the touring Russians.

Like Trail taking to Sweden added non-playing personnel who suffered memory lapses when it came time to pay hotel and personal laundry bills.

You Can Be Sure He'll Get Something

Now Mr. Kromm in his best-seller "The Cotton Pickin' CAHA" alleges Trail was mistreated, abused and horse-whipped. "We only got $14,455.03," he says. "Why to cover loss of wages alone, the tab is $19,300. Please remit forthwith. In cash."

Judging from the color in Lord Ivan Temple's face this week (ash grey) the only thing Kromm is going to get from the CAHA is a fat poke across the skull with a heavy hockey stick. As Mr. Tennyson said, all things must die, Kromm's accounting included.

The CAHA and Mr. Temple have been doing a little bookkeeping too. Between their calculations and Kromm's there is a chasm wide enough to drive a Clydesdale through.

For instance: The basic budget called for the CAHA to give the Trail contingent an all-expenses-paid 42-day trip. For loss of time away from their jobs, the tab was $14,000; for excess baggage, $2,000; for Canadian uniforms, $1,000; and, for equipment, $1,000. Total: $18,000. When Kromm hollered for player help, the CAHA sent Bob Forhan and Bob McKnight, and agreed to pay $1,100. After the world championships, the CAHA arranged for the Smokies to play exhibition games in Baden-Baden and Geneva.

The arrangements called for the Smokies to get their expenses and roughly $2,000. They did—but it doesn't show in the Trail budget. Add it up and according to the CAHA slide rule, the Smokies picked up approximately $21,100. So where does Trail and Mr. Kromm get off, asks Ivan Lord Temple?

Pin-Money Helps Avert Starvation

The CAHA asked itself the same question. Unless its bird-logs, the CAHA, alias Gordon Juekes, came up with some interesting information.

In a letter to colleague Temple this week, Juekes noted that "in addition to the $21,100, Trail picked up a little here and there."

For the record, then, Trail was given the following pin-money: B.C. Government, $2,500; Toronto Maple Leafs, $500; Montreal Canadiens, $1,000; Sen. Hartland Molson, $500; proceeds of exhibition games in Powell River and Vancouver, $2,275; a raffle in Trail, $2,223; Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., $1,500.

This rings the cash register at $32,755, give or take a couple of bells.

Somewhere along the line, Trail was counting on $4,300 from the sale of team yearbooks, programs, et al, from home exhibition games. Whether this sum was realized the CAHA doesn't know and probably never will. Mr. Kromm isn't telling everything.

One thing he didn't complain about was the shellacking the CAHA took in backing the Smokies' cross-Canada tour. Trail won one, lost seven. The CAHA won none and lost $5,000.

Nowhere in the above figures of public, private, government or business philanthropy to Trail are cents listed. Lord Ivan was asked about that.

Cents?" he roared. "There ain't no sense to it."

Swimmers to Seek Provincial Crowns

Aquatic athletes from many parts of the Pacific Northwest will be churning waters of the Crystal Garden Saturday in competition for provincial age-group swimming and diving championships.

The gala, co-sponsored by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club and "Y" Swimming Club, will decide indoor champions of the B.C. section of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association.

The meet starts at 10 a.m. with first heats in the swimming section. Diving events begin at 2 p.m., finals at 5.

Dr. Wladimir Eliasberg Gets the Word from Casey Stengel

You Don't Have to Be Nuts To Be Met Fan, But It Helps

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—You don't have to be nuts to be a New York Mets baseball fan, but it helps. This is a scientific fact—straight from the psychiatrist's couch.

Intrigued by repeated suggestions that the new breed now whooping it up for Casey Stengel's ragamuffin Polo Grounders consists of a weird mixture of complexes and suppressed desires, we decided to find out for ourselves.

We called the American Mental Health Foundation, Incorporated.

The foundation referred us to Wladimir G. Eliasberg, M.D., Ph.D., psychiatrist, psychoanalyst, psychologist, in New York.

Certainly, said the doctor, a greying, bespectacled man with a reserved, scholarly manner, there is some basis for calling the Mets fans complex-ridden.

WRITES 17 BOOKS

The doctor's credentials for the matters of the mind are impressive—born in Wiesbaden, Germany; holder of degrees from universities of Berlin, Heidelberg and Munich; author of 17 books, among them Psychotherapy and Society and more than 300 articles in medical and scientific journals; and past president of the American Society of Psychoanalytical Physicians.

Is it abnormal, the doctor was asked, for people suddenly to go wild over an inept, chronically-losing baseball team which is struggling to stay out of the cellar?

What makes meek, little grandmothers desert their knitting and become raving maniacs behind third base? What makes grown men spend hours printing huge signs which say: "Mets—you're loveable" and youngsters play hookey from school just to get an autograph of greying, old Duke Snider or belly-sliding Choo Coleman?

Bionda Is Bidding For Sixth Crown

It didn't take Jack Bionda long to prove he's still a master with a lacrosse stick.

Bionda has played only two games this season, and those with a skate cut on his foot, yet the New Westminster ace has already picked up a total of two goals and six assists in the Inter-City Lacrosse League scoring race.

Bionda has won the league point crown with alarming regularity—1954, 1957, 1958, 1959 and 1960.

In 1961 he played only 12 games and still finished 10th. Last season he played 12 and finished 16th.

This year he has almost a full season ahead of him—naturally he is favored to win his sixth title.

SEPKA IN FRONT

He hasn't won it yet, however. Bionda's teammate, Cliff Sepka, last year's scoring champion, is back on top again. Sepka has played all of Westminster's four games and leads the league in points, with 17, and goals, with 11.

And Gordie Gimpel of Vancouver is only two points behind.

Bright spot for Victoria Shamrocks this year is veteran Whitney Severson, holding down third place with 12 points. This is his fastest start in years.

Only two points behind Severson is Jim McNeil, 1959 rookie of the year, who seems to be on his way to another 40-goal season.

"It is mass suggestion," said Dr. Eliasberg, leaning back in the swivel-chair of his elegantly upholstered and carpeted office. "It's a 'mathematical' situation with passions multiplied by the en-masse factor."

"It is as contagious as a disease. When a group stands up and yells wildly—as the Mets fans do—no one dares not to follow suit. Failure to do so would mean ostracism."

Why the Mets? Why don't these people unleash their imprisoned emotions on some other team?

"It is characteristic that masses latch on to a cause that apparently is destined for defeat," the psychiatrist explained. "With them there is no such thing as frustration. They like to grab a lowly cause and carry it to victory."

Did the moving of the Giants and Dodgers to the Pacific coast have anything to do with the growth of this violent new baseball spirit?

FELT LIKE ORPHANS

"Assuredly," the doctor said. "This is the mechanism of rejection. When the Giants and Dodgers left, their fans felt like orphaned children. There also was some bitterness comparable to that generated by the advent of a younger child."

How do the Mets satisfy this need?

"The Mets provide a new, shiny toy. The deserted fans can fondle it and stick out their tongues in vengeance with the spiteful rejoinder: 'We'll show you.'"

And crusty, 73-year-old Casey Stengel—does he provide the have-nothing Mets fans with the father image?

"It's very important," Dr. Eliasberg said. "Just as in politics, this venerable figure offers a leader whom fans can do all."

Why don't they cheer for the Yankees?

"That," replied the doctor with a knowing smile, "is like cheering for U.S. Steel."

Red Sox 2nd? It's a Crazy, Mixed-Up Race

By Associated Press

So, Boston Red Sox are in second place in the American League. So, what's so funny about that? Aren't Chicago White Sox, like Boston, a prime pre-season choice for the second division, running in front? And Kansas City Athletics, another pick for the loser echelon, a close third?

And aren't New York's mighty Yankees struggling along in fourth with the other contenders stringing behind?

It's just a crazy, mixed-up race, that's all.

The Red Sox downed Washington Senators 8-5 Monday night and Los Angeles Angels beat the White Sox 7-3 in the only games on the AL schedule.

The results eased Boston into the runner-up spot, one game back of Chicago and 10 percentage points ahead of the As, and put the Angels into a sixth-place tie with Cleveland at the .500 level.

CLIMB OUT OF CELLAR

In the only National League game, Houston Colts climbed out of the cellar with their fifth straight victory, outlasting New York Mets 4-2. Houston now shares ninth place with Milwaukee.

The Red Sox belted seven extra-basers among their 11 hits, including a three-run homer by Bob Tilton in the sixth inning that stood up as the clincher. Frank Malone and Dick Stuart also homered for Boston, Chuck Schilling rapped a pair of doubles, and Carl Yastrzemski and Lu Clinton tripled.

Gene Conley was credited with the pitching victory, his second in three decisions, with strong help from Dick Radatz.

The Angels also went on a long-ball binge in beating Chicago for the second time in a row, while the White Sox had a frustrating evening on the bases.

Leon Wagner smacked his seventh homer and two singles for Los Angeles, Ed Sadowski homered and singled, George Thomas hit a homer, and Jim Fregosi cracked a triple and two-run double.

Cookie Goes Berserk With Men-in-Blue

BUFFALO (AP)—Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist, the American Football League's Most Valuable Player of the year in 1962, was arrested today on charges of second-degree assault and resisting arrest.

Police said Gilchrist, 243-pound fullback of the Buffalo Bills, was stopped by patrolmen after his automobile failed to halt for a stop sign.

Gilchrist, 27, could not produce registration or driver's licence, police said, and was taken to his home. When he was still unable to produce the documents, police said, he was taken to police headquarters.

Lieut. Joseph O'Mara said Gilchrist became abusive and struck one of the patrolmen. It took four officers to subdue him, O'Mara said.

Gilchrist, former Canadian Football League star, also was charged with running a stop sign, failing to produce a registration, driving without a licence and disorderly conduct.

TRAINER SIZZLES OVER... FASTEST PIMLICO DRILL

Z-I-P! There Goes Chateaugay

BALTIMORE (AP)—Kentucky Derby winner Chateaugay worked a mile in one minute 37.3-seconds Monday, the fastest workout time on record in Pimlico, and trainer Jim Conway didn't like it a bit.

"This was much too fast," Conway said after exercise boy Carlos Martinez took the Darby Dan Farm chestnut colt around the track in preparation for Saturday's $150,000 Preakness.

"I wanted him to go in around

1:41 or 1:42. I never knew that boy to miss by so much."

The field of probable starters for the 1 3-16-mile classic, middle jewel in racing's triple crown, was increased to eight with word that Mrs. Charles D. Morgan's Sky Wonder and Theodore D. Buehl's Lemon Twist would make the 87th run for the black-eyed Susans.

Conway was plainly upset by the speedy workout given Chateaugay by Martinez, the regular exercise boy. Conway tried in vain to flag him down.

"A work out like that could definitely take the edge off a horse, but I don't think it will hurt Chateaugay."

Chateaugay was clocked in the fractional times of .24, .35, .45, .45 .45, .59 .45, 1:12, 1:24 .35 and 1:37 .35, then galloped out an additional one-eighth in 1:52 .45.

Sky Wonder, who had been expected to join the Preakness field from New York, became a definite entry Monday with word that he would arrive by van sometime Wednesday.

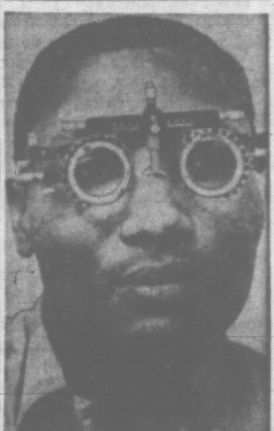

Lemon Twist, which won the Illinois Derby at Sportsman's Park last Saturday, was put on a van Monday and is expected to arrive at Pimlico today.

The Preakness resembles a return engagement for the Derby cast with the first four finishers on the grounds since last week. Cain Hoy Stable's Never Bend, champion two-year-old of 1962, was second in the Derby May 4, followed by Rex C. Ellsworth's favored Candy Spots and Ambush Stable's On My Honor.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—What do our Best Minds and Great Personalities babble about at historic upper bracket cocktail parties and dinners? Schweitzer, Freud, the Bomb... words that will "live"?

Yes indeed and also yesiree.

I jammed my good ear into the dialogue at Time magazine's cocktail and dinner party for hundreds of celebrities at the Waldorf. And I picked up many a conversational gem, to wit:

"We must keep in touch..." (Heard 20 times).

An author: "I took him to Trader Vic's Friday and got him fried" (Name deleted).

Perle Mesta: "I'm looking for a place to sit down."

Clare Booth Luce to Barry Goldwater: "I'm your loyal supporter but..." (Rest lost in roar of celebrity chatter).

Goldwater afterward: "She's my gal."

Edgar Bergen (brandishing camera), "I'm covering this for Newsweek."

An editor: "Terrible about Ike refusing because he had a golfing reunion of a year's standing."

Journalist: "I'm for a Sane Nuclear Policy. We should drop it—first."

Milton Berle escorting Mrs. Jack Dempsey, introduced her to Mrs. Gene Tunney: "Mrs. Tunney, Mrs. Dempsey. Her husband knows your husband."

Berle later, when it went on and on: "And they say I never get off! They should file this 'The Longest Night,' or 'Week-end at the Waldorf.'"

Professor: "Henry Luce pronounced Stevenson's first name 'Adieye.' I thought it was 'Adlaye.'"

Luce: (In an introduction): "One who has not been on the cover of Time for a very poor reason—she married the editor-in-chief."

Bob Hope was his usual great. He introduced Mortimer Caplin as "our only legal pickpocket... the only man who knows whether this party is deductible..." "Jim Haggerty: I remember him when he was a caddy at the White House..."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Frank Sinatra phoned Toots Shor at Peacock Alley from the Las Vegas "Come Blow Your Horn" party to wish him happy birthday but Toots was birthdaying at Toots Shor's...

Red Buttons is swamped with offers for his new cafe act... Joe E. Lewis invites all his large following to the Las Vegas Flamingo.

Mickey Hargitay vacated the big pink house he shared with Jayne Mansfield; he moved into an SOG hacienda, which also has a heart-shaped pool.

Laurence Harvey is smooching Kim Novak in "Of Human Bondage" under an old MGM contract; he'll get triple the price for such hard work after this...

Noelle Adam'll be a regular member of Keefe Braselle's summer TV'er...

Songwriters never rest: the Ramsey Lewis trio has already recorded a number titled "Happy Rocky"...

Gloria De Haven said at Asti's she'll become a N.Y. resident, has taken a penthouse here...

Lili Palmer will probably star in the film version of Françoise Sagan's Paris play "Valentina's Mauve Gown."

Ray Milland, an amateur astronomer, sold his telescope to the Atomic Energy Commission in Los Alamos...

Dore Schary will try to revive his play, "Banderol," a quick B'way flop, for another attempt next winter...

Gen. MacArthur again turned down a fat bid to write a book about president Truman, who fired him.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: When Castro arrived in Moscow (claims Bob Melvin), Khrushchev offered him a 21-gun salute. But Fidel said, "No thanks—I'd rather have the ammunition."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Business is tough these days. If a man does something wrong, he gets fired; if he does something right, he gets taxed.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Achievements are like trousers. They become threadbare if you rest on them."—Dawson County (Ga.) Advertiser.

EARL'S PEARLS: Sometimes the only difference between an alcoholic and a drunk is that the former belongs to a private club.

"Women own us, lock, stock and barrel," insists Corbett Monica at the Latin 11. "If you don't believe it, just ask yourself: 'How come I'm insured—and she's not?'"...

That's earl, brother.

OTTAWA (CP) — "Incredible" says the Royal Canadian Navy of a report that the Royal Navy has abolished the boatswain's call because public address systems have made it obsolete.

The call is a two-note musical instrument used to pipe orders. The 1937 manual of seamanship listed 22 pipes. This number was reduced to 15 in 1951 and now only six pipes are in general use in the RCN. There is no indication it plans to drop them.

The pipes still in use are the "still," "carry on," "general call," "pipe the side," "dinner" and "pipe down." The pipes which have fallen into disuse have to do mainly with heaving and hoisting; for instance, "heave round the capstan."

No one, with the exception of the Queen, is entitled to a pipe unless in naval uniform. "Pipe the side" is jealously guarded as a mark of respect. It has its origin in the pipe used for hoisting a person in or out of the ship by means of yard-arm whip and boatswain's chair when the ship was at sea.

STARTED IN CRUSADES

"Pipe down" means "hands turn in."

Every sailor must know how to use the call and how to pipe the orders.

The use of the call dates back to the days of the Crusades.

1248 A.D. The call was worn as an honored badge of rank, probably because it had always been used to pass orders. It was worn as the badge of office of the Lord High Admiral of England between 1485 and 1562. It has been known as the boatswain's call since about 1671.

Today the call is the badge of office of the Chief Boatswain's mate, quartermasters and boatswain's mates.

A naval tradition resulting from piping of orders is that whistling is forbidden in ships lest it be confused with the sound of the call.

There used to be one exception. Years ago the ship's cook had to whistle all the time he was preparing "plum duff" for Sunday dinner to prove he wasn't eating the raisins.

Grads Need Two Skills At Least

TRAIL (CP)—The adult of the future may have to change his profession or vocation at least twice, says University of B.C. President John A. Macdonald.

And he must be prepared by the educational system to accept the changes and make them efficiently.

Dr. Macdonald spoke Saturday to one in a series of regional education conferences, explaining his report on higher education and pleading for greater scope in facilities throughout B.C.

More than 300 teachers and other education leaders discussed the report as it applied to the province and West Kootenay, and voted in favor of establishing a junior college in this area.

How Far Do Gases Shoot Out from the Sun?

The diameter of the sun is estimated to be 864,000 miles—more than 30 times the diameter of the earth. But this measurement does not include the restless gases of the sun's atmosphere. Sometimes gases of the pale corona reach seven million miles above the surface of the sun. Other solar fireworks shoot up a million miles, and some solar particles reach much farther.

The surface of the sun is so brilliant that it out-dazzles the seething atmosphere above it. In the past, the blazing events in the solar atmosphere could be studied only during a total eclipse. The dazzling face of the sun is then blotted out by the dark disk of the moon, and the surrounding atmosphere can be seen as a halo.

Since 1930, scientists have used a coronagraph to blot out the sun with a man-made eclipse. With this instrument, astronomers can study at any time the activity in the gases

Flares Spring From Sunspot

Above the restless chromosphere is the pearly corona of the sun's upper atmosphere.

Its hazy outline is uneven and spiked with tumulous called solar jets. The pinnacles of the corona may reach up seven million miles. But this distance is a mere step compared with certain gaseous particles which stream from the sun. These ionized particles of gas erupt near sunspots and stream at least 93 million miles across space.

They reach the earth's upper atmosphere where they cause the shimmering auroras. The sun's gases, then, can reach the earth, but how much farther we do not know.

The thin gases of the corona shift up and down in season with the sunspot cycle. Some of the prominences spout up from the normal activity of the sun. The blazing solar flares spring from sunspot activity. This same sunspot activity produces the ionized particles that stream forth as far as the earth—and perhaps beyond.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Bonnie Gray, age 11, of Ramona, Okla., for her question:

What happens when warm and cool air mix?

A conflict between a warm and a cool air mass would depend to a large extent upon the amount of moisture present. The two masses would tend to merge and mingle, and this would set up weatherly turbulence and gusty air currents in the atmosphere. The mixing process would tend to lower the temperature of the warm air and perhaps raise that of the cool air.

When warm, vapor-filled air is cooled, some of its vapor is turned into moisture. If the warm air mass carries a full quota of vapor, we could expect rain or hail from the weather conflict. This would occur when its temperature is lowered by mingling with the cooler air.

But Coun. Joseph Casey called it "a waste of money".

"I can remember the people of the Queenswood area telling the council 'hands off'. During Reeve Chatterton's reign they told us to keep our cotton-picking hands off their area," he reminded councillors.

However, Coun. Gregory Cook said he felt opposition to past suggestions concerning the campus district were due to ignorance of what was intended more than anything else.

"It's really only a matter of education of residents," he said. Mr. Parr asked council for "an opportunity to place the matter before residents in its full perspective."

He pointed out that no such study had been undertaken since establishment of the Gordon Head campus.

It was suggested he consult with members of the University Development Board and Oak Bay municipality, in whose territory half the campus is situated.

Coun. Harold Todd warned that "unless the council is prepared to do away with by-laws which people out there think are protecting them," the study would not be of much use.

"I will support the motion but not enthusiastically," he said.

This drew the ire of Coun. Robert Ostler, chairman of the lands and planning committee, to which Mr. Todd belongs, and which last week passed the recommendation to the council unanimously.

"I must confess I am totally confused as to what this council wants," he said.

But Reeve Stanley Murphy said the study "must go ahead".

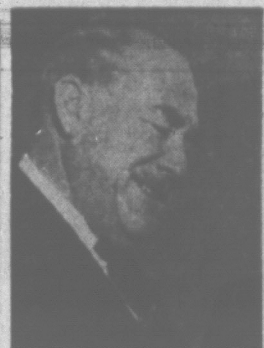

"The ball is over to us now," he said.

Stays in Britain

LONDON (AP)—Home Secretary Henry Brooke told Parliament Monday Chief Anthony Enahoro will be allowed to stay in Britain until the House of Lords disposes of his case. The 39-year-old Nigerian tribal chieftain thus won the latest round in his five-months legal battle to avoid extradition to face treason charges in Lagos.

HALFORD WILSON
... "quit playing politics"

Park Plan Outlined

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Automobile Association came up Monday with what it said was a way British Columbia could develop Garibaldi Park with federal money without giving away title to the land.

The association president, Halford Wilson, said the provincial government should finance the development by getting Ottawa to pay half the cost of the Second Narrows Bridge.

He told a press conference the two governments should "quit playing politics" with the project.

He said with the Second Narrows Bridge now toll-free and part of the Trans-Canada Highway system, Premier Bennett should go after Ottawa for half the cost and earmark the money for development of an outdoor playground at Garibaldi.

He said the sum Ottawa would pay would be $10,000,000 or more.

(Cost of the six-lane Second Narrows Bridge was $25,000,000).

The federal government has offered to develop Garibaldi but Premier Bennett has said the province won't give up title to the land.

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Hovercraft Use To Be Studied

NANAIMO—The developers of Britain's Hovercraft will make a feasibility study of Georgia Strait soon, examining the route for local developers interested in the craft as a commercial carrier.

Its boosters say the Hovercraft could carry 350 persons, 40 cars and several tons of freight from here to Vancouver in 20 minutes at 70 miles an hour.

Frank Ney, head of a local real estate firm, said he had ridden in the Hovercraft in eastern Canada and found it "most impressive."

Ney said if Westland Aircraft Limited of London, England, finds the Nanaimo-Vancouver route satisfactory, he would form a company to start a service—but not if the provincial government decides on a similar venture.

NANAIMO—Wellington parents of children attending Mount Benson School made no idle threats when they said they would build their own underpass at a school crossing on the Trans-Canada Highway if they got no action from the B.C. government.

Mrs. Frank Murphy, an executive member of the Wellington Safety Committee, said Monday they are going ahead with plans for getting protection for school children at the intersection of Jingle Pot Road and the Island Highway.

"This is no stunt," she said. "If the government won't protect our children we will do it ourselves."

She said the committee has already investigated the cost of an underpass. This would run to $15,000.

Parents in the district have been campaigning for an under or overpass at the highway intersection since January when a six-year-old boy was killed at the crossing.

The government indicated it might undertake an overpass but so far has taken no action.

DUNCAN—Robert Fred Field, 18, of Duncan, pleaded guilty in police court Monday to stealing a 35-mm. camera from a parked car. He was remanded until next Tuesday for sentence.

NANAIMO—Eighteen-year-old Cameron Lawrence, missing since early Saturday morning, was found dead in a car Monday night in the Nanaimo Lakes district.

Police said death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning, but withheld further details.

An extensive search was launched for the young man when he failed to return from a drive-in movie.

His father informed police his son had been depressed since arriving here nine months ago from Port Alberni.

DUNCAN—Fleeting guilty to setting fire to a mattress in his home, Francis George of Duncan, was remanded until next Tuesday for a probation officer's report and sentence.

The court was informed that George during a family quarrel pointed an unloaded gun at his sister-in-law and then went home and set fire to a pile of papers on the mattress.

DUNCAN—Council Monday approved the rezoning of a piece of property on Cairnsmore and Cavel Streets for construction of a $150,000 apartment block.

DUNCAN—The Cricket Club of Duncan has informed city council that it has put off for the time being the sale of its cricket grounds.

The club's announcement follows protests from the Klawans Club and other organizations against sale of the property.

It has been suggested that the grounds be retained as a playground.

Nine Charged Following Indian's Death

GLASLYN, Sask. (CP)—Nine district residents have been charged with non-capital murder in the death of a 20-year-old Indian man following an incident at an Indian encampment near here during the weekend.

Allen Thomas, a resident of the Saulteaux Indian reserve, died Sunday morning en route to hospital shortly after a group of men allegedly raided the encampment 1½ miles west of here, upset two tents and drove the occupants away.

Charged in North Battleford police court Monday with non-capital murder were: Laurence Donald Michnik, 21; Harold Douglas Michnik, 21; Daniel Roy Willument, 30; George William Battary, 23; Jerry Dale Hobbs, 21; Alfred Erwin Lobe, 47; William Joseph Cardain, 31; Donald Tracy Hobbs, 21, and Howard Joseph McConnell, 40. They were remanded in custody to May 22 for preliminary hearing.

All but Lobe, McConnell and Cardain are farmers. Lobe and McConnell operate a post peeling camp near Glaslyn and Cardain is employed by them.

The men were picked up by RCMP in a series of arrests Sunday.

HAD HEAD INJURIES

Police said Thomas suffered head injuries, but cause of death had not been determined. An autopsy was performed Sunday but the pathologist's report had yet to be completed.

RCMP in North Battleford said the raid apparently followed "some bad feeling between the town people and the Indians."

Town Mayor W. J. Lofis said he believed the raid resulted from a disagreement between one of the Indian men at the encampment and several district men. He said he did not know the cause of the disagreement.

He said police arrived on the scene a few minutes after the incident, which apparently lasted only a few minutes.

Mr. Lofis said there had been no racial trouble here previously.

He said the Indians at the encampment, on town property, were working in the area at various jobs, including picking rocks off farmer's fields.

DR. WESLEY MUNSIE
"... we've been naive"

B.C. Dentists Consider Political Arm

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP)—Dr. Wesley Munsie, president of the British Columbia College of Dental Surgeons, says formation of an inter-professional council is under way to combat erosion of standards by action of the provincial government.

Speaking at the college's annual meeting here Monday, Dr. Munsie said:

"Professions share a common interest in the effects of anti-professionalism in government. Dentists have been naive in the ways of politicians, a shortcoming which is shared by men in other professions.

"If necessary, a political action arm of the inter-professional council should be formed and if that sounds like drastic departure from traditional attitudes by the professions involved, it is to meet a drastic situation.

"Personally, I am sorry things have reached this point in B.C."

Dr. Munsie said exploratory talks have been held by representatives of seven professions, but he declined to name the professions.

The College of Dental Surgeons initiated the move, he said, because of the provincial government's interpretation and administration of legislation under which certain dental mechanics are permitted to deal directly with the public.

Huge Fish Survey By Eight Nations

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Ships and scientists of eight nations will head for the North Atlantic late this month to undertake a research survey of the fish potential of Greenland waters.

Canada's role in the international project is being directed by Dr. Neil J. Campbell, oceanographer in charge of the Canadian Fisheries Research Board's Atlantic oceanographic group here.

Other countries taking part are France, Iceland, Britain, the Soviet Union, Norway, Denmark and West Germany. The study is being sponsored by ICNAF—the International Commission for Northwest Atlantic Fisheries.

Objective of the study, which will cover 1,000,000 square miles of ocean, is to determine why fish stocks in Greenland waters very greatly from year to year.

Canada has a twofold interest in the project. If the potential of the area can be increased it will provide new fishing grounds for an expanded Canadian fleet. At the same time it will help draw foreign vessels away from waters traditionally fished by Canadians.

Dr. Campbell says that if low catches in the Greenland area continue, Canada will likely be affected to an increasing degree by more foreign vessels fishing in international waters off the east coast.

SEND TWO SHIPS

Two Canadian ships will range over approximately 50 per cent of the survey area, enabling scientists to take samples and make observations at regular intervals.

The transport department's meteorological division will provide ice and weather information for all ships in the survey. The department of mines and technical survey will provide the survey ship Baffin and data - processing facilities, as well as personnel. The Fisheries Research Board will contribute personnel responsible for analysis of all physical, chemical and biological data for Canada.

The former navy corvette Sackville will have a team of scientists and technicians headed by D. L. Peer and R. F. Platform, both of Dartmouth.

Special Classes Planned Here For Would-Be Foster Parents

By LESLIE MILLIN

A new approach to prospective foster parents is being tried by the Victoria Family and Children's Service.

The need for foster homes is acute. It's always acute.

In an effort to give prospective foster parents a better understanding of the factors involved in taking a child into one's home, the Children's Service is arranging a series of informal gatherings where interested people can meet officials of the agency and persons already acting as foster parents.

The first of the meetings is tonight at Spencerhouse.

It isn't open to the public—you have to be invited by the agency—but there will be others.

You can get an invitation by contacting Mrs. B. L. Packford, EV 2-5121.

The new system represents a departure from the routine under which prospective foster parents were interviewed privately in their own homes by an official who screened them carefully.

Now married people who want to take a child into their home can talk with those who have already done so, getting a lay rather than a professional viewpoint.

Meetings will be small and informal, with no more than 16 people at each.

Prospective foster parents need not fear they are going to be left with the total responsibility for the child.

Schools, doctors, social workers—each child has one—and agency team up with the foster family.

Slow learners and emotionally disturbed children are especially difficult to place, because they do not offer parents the emotional rewards that normal or superior children do.

Also difficult to place are children of mixed racial background. The Victoria agency looks after many of these, most of them of native Indian or East Indian background.

Sing Victoria's praises and you wake echoes all over the place. Here's one from Truro, Nova Scotia, where a gent with handwriting even worse than mine, but with the soul of a poet, remembers our city kindly.

"Surely in Victoria," says David Whitby, "it is always ripe summer weather gently dropping into fall. I remember a still noon. The bartleths let go and plump on the grass. The chickadees pursue their small inscrutable affairs through the apple trees to the deep boredom of the contralto Siamese among the dahlias . . .

"Or it is a royal morning on the corner of Douglas and Fort. I am out of soundings for the moment when a friendly citizen stops to offer me course and distance, and has time to chat for a while, too. I liked that.

"Cedar smoke incense-sweet on the gentle Pacific air; that is the signature, that and the precious firs. Here on this bitter Atlantic coast I love so well, it is astringent spruce and codfish drying on the flakes. That will make the Maritimers mad just because they know it's true.

"He shall have dominion from sea to sea." The parts between, you may have for the taxes for all of me. When the sheriff runs me out of N.S., I shall streak for the Coast—gagging for salt air all the way. I left my watch in Victoria, but that's nothing. I left my heart there, too."

Well, Truro's a fine town in spite of the codfish, but for a man who feels as Mr. Whitby does, there's only one proper haven. All he need do . . . and how nice that our slogan's official again . . . is follow the birds.

No names, but the every young lady who passed on this bit of Victoriana insists it's true.

One of our young couples, says she, a while ago went all out to buy a stately old white elephant of a home because they fell in love with its faded elegance.

Stretched to the limit of their finances, the kids were mourning because they could not keep in a restoration when a visitor paused under one of the lighting fixtures that dangle from the high ceilings.

"That's priceless!" was the verdict; and while not entirely accurate, it comes close enough.

Offers made for just one of these intricate and lovely pieces run to four figures, and the dizzied pair are wondering whether they should accept.

They need the money, but it was partly because of those splendid fixtures that they bought the place.

Speaking of Victoria's houses of an earlier day, Rebel Mowat bleeds a little when one of them is demolished.

"In some of those places," our dean of rubberneck tour drivers tells me, "you'll find redwood planks that came from California, the kind of lumber they just don't mill anymore."

When the Old Charming Inn tumbled, Rebel bled a full pint.

"I used to drive by with my load," says he, "and point out the place, and tell them Ruyard Kipling once stayed there. What am I going to tell them now?"

A shrewd observer of the tourist, Rebel Mowat feels we offer him a pretty good menu by day, but fall short on evening entertainment.

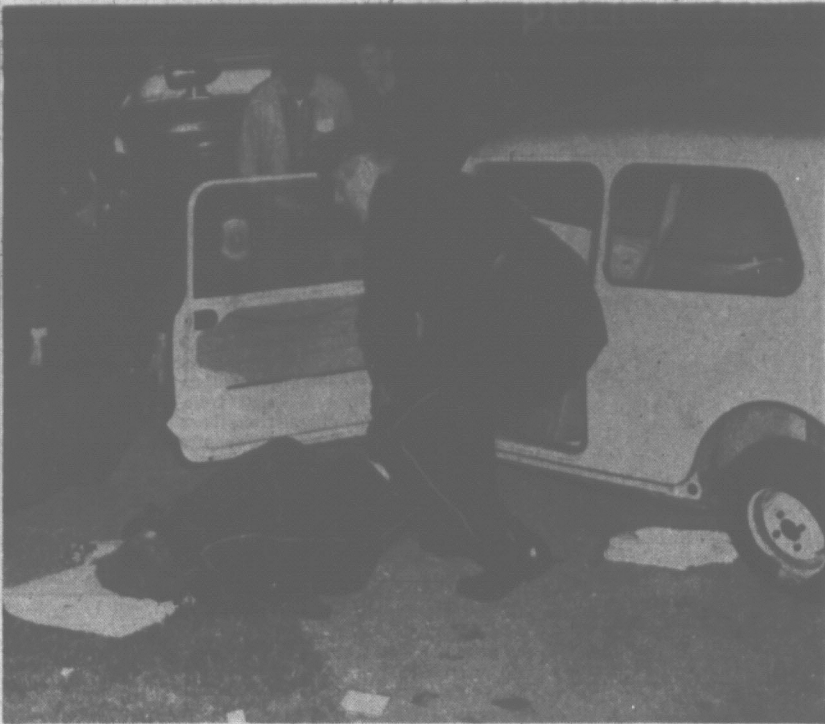

No use to break out in a rash of American-styled diversifications, though, because the summer guest can claim bigger and better at home. Rebel has an idea or two of his own about what would appeal, but prefers to keep these under wraps for the present.

Butchart's Gardens remains our prime tourist attraction, he finds.

"Here's a funny thing about human nature," he reflects. "When there was no admission charge, people took pains to keep the gardens clean."

"Now they pay to get in, that's changed. A lot of visitors feel free to drop stuff all over place."

So much for this green and leafy day, except in observe that it's unwise to leave your summer resort booking too long. Indications are that last year's slump won't be repeated.

POLICE OF THE AREA are hoping the scene above will be absent in the rush of holiday weekend traffic. They are asking for extra care in driving. The picture shows the removal to hospital of a 60-year-old woman

Woman, Boy Hurt In Road Mishaps

A 60-year-old woman on her way home from work Monday night and an 11-year-old boy on his way to school this morning were injured in traffic accidents.

Rush Hour Parkers Face Bigger Fines

Motorists who park in the restricted curbside lanes during the rush hour will find it an expensive habit if city council adopts a works committee recommendation.

Committee today urged raising the fine from $2.50 to $5 for a first offence and $10 for each subsequent offence.

The restrictions prohibit parking or stopping between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. on selected downtown traffic routes. Committee was told an entire traffic lane could be blocked by a single illegally-parked car.

Committee turned down a request by lawyer David Hummel for immediate permission to proceed with construction of proposed Gleggarry Private Hospital in the Fairfield-Chandler area.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said the promoters' decision to begin moving soil on the controversial project before a building permit was issued "has stirred up a hornet's nest and has embarrassed city council."

The hospital project was vehemently opposed by a large number of nearby residents but council overrode their objections after undertaking to withhold a building permit until all construction plans were approved and the 16-lot property consolidated into a single parcel.

Creation of a 200-foot parking strip on the west side of Douglas, south of Humboldt, for tourist buses from the mainland was recommended by committee. The strip, accommodating about five buses, would be reserved June 1 to Sept. 15.

Intermunicipal committee will be asked to study possible methods of persuading Greater Victoria school board to permit more use of playground and gymnasium facilities by amateur sports groups.

Mayor R. B. Wilson pointed out the city threw open its enclosed parks for free use by amateur sports and he thought the school board should reconsider its present policy of charging basketball teams $6 an hour for use of a gymnasium.

Lieutenant Barry Gallant, 332 Dallas Road, has been promoted to the rank of captain. An officer with the First Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Captain Gallant is a graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston.

The 24th Field Regiment (Militia) of the Royal Canadian Artillery will conduct a seaward firing practice at Albert Head Camp, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday. Weapons used will be 105 millimetre howitzers.

Victoria Aqua Ski Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at 575 Johnson Street.

St. Alban's 50-Up Club will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 in the parish hall.

College Library Contract Given Vancouver Firm

Victoria College Council Monday night awarded a contract for a million-dollar library on the Gordon Head Campus to a Vancouver firm.

The award was made to Narod Construction Ltd. which submitted the lowest of seven bids on the project—$1,220,000.

Final approval by order-in-council from the provincial government is needed before the contract is signed and work can begin.

However, once the contract is signed, the work must be completed in 400 days, a University Development Board spokesman said. In any case, the building is scheduled for completion in time for the 1964-65 college year.

Tenders for the building, which will house 300,000 volumes and provide seating for 1,000 students, were opened April 25.

Farmer Construction Ltd. was the only Victoria firm to submit a bid for the job.

Call More Tenders, Government Advised

A "bumper year" for B.C. construction, with a 16.5 per cent increase over last year's program, was forecast today in Victoria by the president of the Canadian Construction Association.

Thomas A. Somerville of Toronto said B.C. will have the largest increase of any province, due in large measure to the Peace River power project.

Mr. Somerville put the construction total for the province this year at $900,000,000 and said it represented a per capita expenditure of $540—$25 above the per capita expenditure in the four western provinces and $135 above the national average.

MAJOR PROBLEM

Even with this increased program, though, Mr. Somerville said the industry in B.C. still faced a major problem common to the industry across Canada—over-capacity.

One way the industry hoped to overcome the problem was by persuading governments at all levels to put all possible work out to tender rather than to do it with their own machines and crews.

Government competition with private contractors is still prevalent in B.C., Mr. Somerville said, and more so than in any other province except Saskatchewan.

"We feel the government as tax collectors should not compete with the tax-paying private construction industry," he declared.

The construction association feels that it is wasteful for governments to invest large sums of money in construction equipment to do work which could be done at least as cheaply and efficiently by putting out tenders to private contractors.

Mr. Somerville noted that B.C. Hydro had moved in the right direction by going back to the tender system after an initial false start when much of the work was being done with its own equipment.

OUT TO TENDER

He pointed out that while the provincial public works department put all construction work out to tender, the highways department was engaged in direct competition with private industry in a considerable volume of work.

Mr. Somerville, who is visiting Victoria during a tour of western branches of the association, was met here by George Farmer, president of Farmer Construction Co. Ltd. of Victoria and a vice-president of the association.

Children's Salute To Queen Victoria Celebration Climax

The annual, week-long Greater Victoria celebrations will build to a climax Friday, May 24, when 1,800 children will take part in the IODE salute to Queen Victoria on her birthdate.

For the first time in many years, the colorful ceremony will be staged on the actual anniversary of the Queen's birth.

It will climax the week's celebrations heralded by the current Jaycee Fair.

Usually the event is held on the Friday preceding Victoria Day festivities.

GRADE-SIX STUDENTS

The boys and girls taking part will be grade 6 pupils from Greater Victoria schools, Girl Guides, and St. John Ambulance and United Services Cadets.

The band of S. J. Willis Junior High School under the direction of Howard Denike will provide music for the service.

Rev. A. C. Hamil, representing the Greater Victoria Ministerial Association, will give the prayer, and Mrs. George E. Tait, of Toronto, national education secretary of the IODE, will be the main speaker.

STATUE SENTRIES

IODE sentries will be posted at the base of Queen Victoria's statue at 10:40 a.m., and the service will begin at 10:45 with a ceremonial parade led by standard bearers.

Flower girls will place wreaths on the statue at the conclusion of the service.

Grade 6 pupils and the band will be seated on the legislature steps, while cadets and guides will form ranks on the grass.

At conclusion of the wreath-laying, participants will proceed along Belleville and across Government to Thunderbird Park, where they will disperse.

The grade 6 pupils will come from every Victoria elementary school, and Monterey in Oak Bay, Macaulay in Esquimalt, Tillium and Toimie in Saanich, and View Royal Elementary.

There will be about 45 teachers in charge of the pupils. J. H. Bigsby will conduct the group singing.

TOOTLING TUNEFULLY to practise up for Victoria Day parade is Mike Gill, 13, of the Victoria Boys' Band. Waiting with tuba and drum at the ready are Bob Cadwallader and Artie Wood, both 10. One of the youngest bands in Canada, with an average age under 12, the boys' band has just returned from a stint of marching in the Bellingham Blossomtime parade last weekend. All 35 of them will march May 20 under the direction of leader Reg Wood. They are holding a tag day on May 25 to raise money for new instruments and uniform replacements.

Clip This Handy Holiday Program For Fun Weekend

The one coming up will be a go-go-go long weekend in Victoria.

And no matter how fast you go you won't be able to take in all the events being held to celebrate Victoria Day. The program includes cycle races, swimming heats, horse shows, car racing, a speedboat regatta, numerous concerts, baseball, dancing, a variety show and a carnival.

Here is a detailed program as arranged by Greater Victoria Celebrations Association:

SATURDAY—MAY 18

9 a.m., Victoria Riding Academy Junior Horse Show, 2301 Cedar Hill Cross Road; 10 a.m., Cycling Club races at Beacon Hill Park and Canadian Amateur Swimming heats at Crystal Garden; 1 p.m., Senior baseball doubleheader at Royal Athletic Park.

The Jaycee Spring Fair will be open all day Saturday, ending with the selection of the new Miss Victoria in the evening.

The junior horse show will continue in the afternoon and there will be a diving and swimming competition at Crystal Garden both afternoon and in the evening at 6 p.m.

At the Cameron Bandshell in Beacon Hill Park the Ingraham High School of Seattle will present "Spring Music Festival" at 2 p.m., and Vancouver Island Track Racing Association will hold auto races at 7:30 p.m. at Western Speedway.

SUNDAY—MAY 19

Victoria Inboard and Outboard Speedboat Regatta will be held at 1 p.m. on Elk Lake and at 1:30 the scramble races of Victoria Motorcycle Club at Old Colwood Fair grounds.

The highlight of the day, the crowning of the May Queen, will take place at 2:30 in front of the Legislative Buildings.

At the same time the Central High School choir of Independence, Wash., will present a concert at Cameron Bandshell and East Bremerton High School will give a band concert at Kinsmen Gorge Park.

Two 3 o'clock concerts will be held. At Hampton Park the Mount Vernon Union High School Band will perform and at Willows Park the entertainment will be provided by Edmonds High School Band.

An exhibition of dancing by the Alma Squares and the Nanaimo Legion Majorettes will be given at 3:30 in Beacon Hill Park. The day's activities will conclude with a mixed concert at Veterans' Hospital in late afternoon and evening.

MONDAY—MAY 20

Monday the grand parade through the city centre will begin at 10 a.m. from Pembroke and Cook. Pre-parade entertainment will be provided for the crowd at various points along the route.

The route is along Cook to Pandora, to Quadra, to Yates, along Douglas past City Hall to Fisgard, down to Government, and along Government to the Empress Hotel, where the parade will disperse at Belleville.

The Ralph Meeker Carnival from Tacoma, Wash., will be open beside Memorial Arena Monday afternoon and evening. At 1 p.m. there will be a ball game at Royal Athletic Park and at 1:30, auto racing at Western Speedway.

The 33rd annual open horse show of Victoria Riding Club is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. also, and at 1:30 p.m. there will be more scramble races at Old Colwood Fair grounds.

A variety show featuring Fred Usher and the Home-owners' Orchestra will begin at 1:45 at Cameron Bandshell. Evening shows will be the Victoria Operatic Society presentation of Grieg's "Song of Norway" at 8:15 in Royal Theatre and the Memorial Arena concert and dance.

At 8 p.m. there will be pre-show entertainment at the Arena by Victoria City Pipe Band. At 8:30 the Vancouver Island Western Square Dance Round-Up will be held and at 9:30 the Seattle Police Drill Team will show "Blackout" precision marching.

Topics of the Day

A 58-year-old stevedore who fell 20 feet to the steel deck of a freighter at Ogden Point docks Monday is in satisfactory condition today at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

John Rainey, 2170 Haultain, was on top of a pile of lumber and was about to climb down on an aluminum ladder when he slipped.

An employee of Victoria Stevedoring Co. he was working on the freighter Bente Buvig. The accident occurred shortly before 5:30 p.m.

Gunter K. Moser, 2632 Blanchard, who almost lost control of his car on Cook when he was being tailed by a police patrol car, pleaded guilty to impaired driving in city police court Monday.

He was fined $250 and had his licence to drive suspended.

Patrick Coyle pleaded guilty to causing wilful damage when he appeared before Magistrate William Ostler in city police court Monday.

Possibility of establishing a "school of hospitality" to train Victorians working in the tourist industry will be discussed at a meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist industry group May 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the Net Loft.

Reports will be made on the dockside piper fund, the welcome sign at the Roundabout and the familiarization tour for business people who come in first-hand contact with visitors to the city.

Ask The Times

Q. What is trephining? R. M. P. A. Trephining is perhaps the oldest surgical operation known. It makes a small opening in the skull by means of an instrument called a trephine, a small cylinder with cutting teeth on the edge. Trephine openings have been found in ancient skulls, indicating that the operation was practised quite widely in pre-historic times.

NEAR WASHOUT IN CURLING RINK

Cows Cut Out But Crowd Corralled

By MARGE GILROY

Everybody came to the opening night of the fair but the Ayshire cattle.

An estimated 10,000 people—a record first-night crowd, attended.

But some mixup delayed the cattle. They were expected today.

Warm, sunny weather brought out mom, dad and the kiddies.

When the gates opened

every man was at his post and all was running smoothly.

Only hours before a swimming pool with 30,000 gallons of water had sprung a leak and flooded the floor of the Curling Rink. But now that was water under the bridge.

All emergencies that arose, and there were many, were quickly answered by red-shirted Jaycees.

A rush order went out for more hot dogs. Heaters were installed for the chimpanzees, Tippi and Cobina, who were unhappy over the coastal climate.

But outside headquarters all was well. The crowds sauntered about, unconcerned with what might be happening backstage.

In every corner there was an attraction. An automatic food blender dispensing tasty samples and a see-yourself television vied for the largest crowds.

Youngsters, performing antics, were delighted at seeing their own image.

Adults were embarrassed.

"Oh, that's me," they muttered in shocked tones and disappeared into the crowd.

In the agricultural ring three ducks were on the loose but every furtive attempt to escape was quickly checked by two border collies. The well-trained sheep dog belonged to Michael Williams.

"Dancing Waters," enjoyed by many, was viewed with some skepticism by one four-year-old. He wondered aloud, "Is that really water?"

The final Jimmie Rodgers show provided a pleasant reprieve for many weary feet as an almost packed arena sat back to watch the acrobatic and juggling skills of Tommy Bleeker.

Before the curtain went up, Miss Synnove Pettersen, winner of last year's Miss Victoria contest, officially opened the exhibition.

Wall Plaques Are Special Both in Style and Price

By PENNY SAVER

Combining penny saving and hunting is often difficult, particularly if you are looking for wedding presents and want something a bit different. But once in a while Penny's sleuthing has happy results.

I've found the unusual in some wall plaques that feature three dimensional designs. Most are on brown wooden background the shade of teak and are perfect matches for Danish furniture or will complement any modern decor. Plaques come in pairs, in many designs and varying prices. But the penny saving part comes when you know that in this shop plaques are now on sale with 20% off the regular price.

It struck me while looking at these plaques that while people are getting married others are having anniversaries! Even if you don't remember them all, there are certain ones like the 25th (silver) and 50th (golden) that children in particular like to mark with something special.

My shopping has revealed any number of cup and saucer items. One shop has cups decorated in silver or gold and "wedding anniversary" written inside the cup as a lasting memento. These are $2.50.

Or there are others more worthy which have "congratulations on your silver wedding anniversary" inscribed on the saucer. They are priced at $2.

Candles, although not made to last forever, will nevertheless make an appropriate centerpiece for a family celebration. Tall taper-style candles are decorated with silver or gold, depending on the anniversary, of course, and bear the number as well. They sell for $1 a pair.

Call Penny at 382-3131 if you wish to know where she did her shopping.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Last 9-Day Diet Menus Appear In Today's Column

There's something new on the permanent front! The new theory is to roll the hair for a permanent from the roots toward the ends instead of from the ends toward the roots. This makes it possible to curl the rest of the hair without touching the ends. The ends are not rolled.

This has many advantages. It does away with that "waiting for a new permanent" period which is so trying since you do not have to wait for the old permanent to grow out. You can have only the new growth waved. As you know, putting a permanent over a permanent often leads to frizzed ends.

This method is going to solve a lot of problems for a lot of women. When the hair is rolled, the curler is placed near the scalp and held there as the hair is wound about it from the head out towards the ends. Ordinarily the curler is held at the ends and the hair is rolled toward the scalp.

This is the last day I will be giving you a menu from my 9-Day Reducing Diet. You should have lost five to 10 pounds during the diet program. If you have followed the diet religiously and have not lost weight, I suggest you see your physician.

Here are the menus for Wednesday:

BREAKFAST

One poached egg
One thin slice whole wheat toast
Black coffee

LUNCHEON

Salad made of shredded lettuce and one medium tomato (Lemon for dressing)
Two tablespoons cottage cheese

One glass skimmed milk

One-half grapefruit

DINNER

Broiled liver
One portion spinach
One portion beets
One glass skimmed milk
One orange

If you would like the complete diet in booklet form send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the 9-Day Reducing Diet to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

International Theme At Junior Red Cross Tea

Flags of different countries marked each tea table in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room Saturday afternoon, and guests were served by young girls in national costumes at the inter-high school Red Cross tea. Servitors were students of Oak Bay Junior High School.

Tea was sponsored by secondary school students from 12 Victoria and vicinity schools in the inter-high council. Setting up the tables and decorating were done by students from Colquitz Junior High, Lansdowne Junior High, Elizabeth Fraser Junior High, North Saanich Junior High, Mount View Senior High and Royal Oak Junior High.

Ann Kemp of Victoria High, supervised tea arrangements, assisted by Mrs. H. Gordon, field supervisor for the Junior Red Cross.

Students of Mrs. D. L. Baxter, home economics teacher at S. J. Willis, Junior High made sandwiches, aided by staff sponsor Miss Christine MacNab, Ticket convener was Miss M. R. Mathieu, sponsor at Central Junior High.

A fashion show of European costumes was arranged by Oak Bay Junior High under direction of student Brian Fitzpatrick and staff sponsors Mrs. D. Munro and Miss Marion Williams. Commentator was Sandra Barge, Victoria High School.

In keeping with the international theme, the Costain dancers entertained with character numbers including an Irish jig, highland fling, Hawaiian and Hungarian dances.

Mrs. H. E. Geddes, Dr. Olga Jardine, Mrs. Dennis Brown and Mrs. Bruce Humber, who presided at the tea table, were presented with corsages by Esquimalt Senior High.

Denis Brown, chairman of the Junior Red Cross, opened the tea.

The activities of the group include helping needy children of other countries. The $150 received at the tea will be used for this project.

Married in Nanaimo; Home Here

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Philip Weber will make their home in Victoria following a honeymoon on the mainland. The couple was married Saturday afternoon in First Baptist Church, at Nanaimo.

The bride, the former Karley Maxine Pavey, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Pavey of Ladysmith and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Weber of Wilkie, Sask. Rev. Edward N. Boom officiated.

Purple and white lilacs, white broom and bridal wreath decorated the church. Guests were ushered to pews marked with white orchids and lily of the valley by Raymond Wills and Gordon Gillroy. Robert Garlick was best man.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to music played by Miss Linda Jean Davis. She wore a gown of pure peau d'ange touched on bodice and sleeves with lace and crystal appliques. A full hooped skirt had a pointed drop waistline at back accentuated by two self roses.

FLOWERS FROM HAWAII

She carried a white Bible topped with yellow-throated cymbidium orchids which were sent from Hawaii as a gift from Miss Anne Logan. A crown of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of silk illusion net.

Bridal attendants were Miss Helen Pavey, maid of honor; Mrs. Clinton McDonald and Mrs. George Mahon, brides-

Baker, flower girl. All wore ballerina-length gowns of green crystal charm and head-dresses of matching material interwoven with flowers.

Senior attendants carried matching bouquets of daisies and ivy and the flower girl, a woven basket with the same flowers.

At a reception in the Tally-Ho Travel Lodge the couple received guests in front of a decorated archway. Bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Watkin Mossman proposed the toast.

Leaving on honeymoon, the bride wore a wool boucle suit in honey beige shade, topped with beige bramble tweed coat, Cafe au lait accessories, and an orchid corsage from her bouquet, completed the ensemble.

Balanced Diet Takes Second Place to Car

QUEBEC (CP)—Two sociologists asked a number of Quebec families what they would buy if they had more money. Not one replied that it would go toward a better balanced diet.

Most said they would give priority to furniture or an automobile and added that they wouldn't hesitate to borrow to buy them.

"We go from surprise to surprise in reading the report of the two sociologists," says the Federation of Credit Unions.

It says they found that priority for family spending in Quebec runs in this order: furniture, automobile, lodging, medical needs, insurance, food, recreation, clothing.

In some cases they settled for a cheaper home, if necessary, in order to buy furniture or a car. And it was found that the poorest families seemed to own the biggest and newest cars.

NEW WING

Volunteers To Wear Natty New Uniforms

It was announced at meeting of the Junior Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital that volunteer workers in the mobile and gift shop at the entrance to the new wing, will have new and attractive uniforms. These will be worn for the first time when the wing is opened on June 15. The shop will be maintained and staffed by auxiliary members.

Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, introduced by the auxiliary president, Mrs. R. W. Campbell, presented George Masters, hospital business administrator, with a cheque for $5,000 which symbolizes a commitment for furnishing of the foyer in the new hospital wing.

Mrs. Fred Bartholomew reported that 80 flower arrangements were distributed to patients in various parts of the hospital in April.

Bicknell-Jolly Wedding

St. Mark's Anglican Church was setting recently when Gail Marie Jolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Jolly of Victoria and Donald Wilfred Bicknell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Bicknell of Chilliwack, exchanged marriage vows. Canon R. Willis officiated.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a gown of nylon tulle over taffeta. Embroidered lace dotted with mother of pearl sequins bordered the scoop neckline. The widely flaring skirt was caught by tulle roses and a large bow at back which accentuated tiny waistline of the gown. A filmy illusion net veil filmed from a coronet of rhinestones. Bridal bouquet was of red roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Joy Bicknell, and bridesmaid, Miss Sheila Longman, chose pale blue taffeta dresses with an overlay of nylon net. They carried bouquets of pink roses. Sisters of the bride and groom, Miss Lynne Jolly and Miss Sandra Bicknell were flower girls. Their blush pink nylon frocks had mocked-bodices in flower design. They carried baskets of yellow flowers.

Malcolm Jolly was best man and Richard Jolly usher.

Baskets of white and pink carnations decorated the church and also the reception room at Olde England Inn. John Flynn proposed the toast to the bride.

As her travel ensemble for a honeymoon trip to Hawaii the bride chose a shell pink embroidered Anglaise sheath with matching full-length white coat and accessories of pink and white. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Couple will make their home in Vancouver.

DEAR ABBY . . .

It Depends, Lady!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After seven years of marriage, my husband and I have finally resolved this universal problem. He couldn't resist flirting, and I couldn't help getting furious about it. So we agreed that from that moment on it would cost him $10 a wink to flirt. It's been months since we made that deal, and he has been exposed to many pretty girls in my presence, and so far I haven't collected a dime. I don't kid myself that he doesn't flirt behind my back for free, but at least he doesn't hurt my feelings any more. Clever?

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this specifically for junior and senior high school students: I am a senior at an accredited high school. I am considered an average student and, like many average students, I could have done much better.

Today, in the mail, I received a "turn down" from a nearby college in response to my application for admission. It was quite a shock. I just want to say to all students who want to go to college: STUDY NOW!

DEAR ABBY: My stepfather and I keep on having fights about spaghetti. He says you should eat it with a spoon and I say you should eat it with a fork. Will you please tell me who is right? SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA: You are both right! Place a spoon (large) in your left hand, and a fork in your right. "Twist" the spaghetti you've forked up into the hollow of the spoon until it forms a bite-sized ball. And eat it with the fork. But be sure your left hand knows what your right hand is doing.

Licensing of Practical Nurses

Victoria Council of Women decided to make a complete survey of local conditions for practical nurses when the group met in the Public Library's Music Room, Monday afternoon.

It was reported that, in spite of several appeals to the provincial government by both Provincial Council of Women and the Registered Nurses Association, the Practical Nurses Act of 1951 has yet to be implemented.

Act requires that practical nurses be licensed. Newfoundland, Quebec and British Columbia are the only provinces where such licenses are not issued.

TRAINING PLAN

Yet vocational schools teach practical nursing courses in Victoria, Nanaimo and Vancouver and plans are being prepared for similar schools in Kelowna and Prince George.

Implementation of the act would "protect the public and give due status to the girl who studies to equip herself as a practical nurse."

It would also control activities of practical nurses who are a necessity in B.C. where only six hospitals have schools of registered nurses' training.

Enforcement of the act would also curtail activities of so-called practical nurses who began "by helping mother in the home 30-odd years ago and are not trained sufficiently to care for the critically ill."

Mrs. H. L. MacKenzie, president, was named as delegate to national meeting to be held at Banff, June 10 to 13.

Mrs. Carrie McLean introduced resolutions to be brought up at this meeting. They dealt with water pollution, grants for institutional care for the chronically ill, scholarships for social work, examinations of level crossings, possible licensing of motor boat operators and uniformity of marriage laws in Canada.

The Fourth Estate

Burke said there were Three Estates in Parliament; but, in the Reporters' Gallery yonder, there sat a Fourth Estate more important far than they all.

When Thomas Carlyle wrote these words more than a century ago, adding the press to the church, the peerage and the commoner, he was looking shrewdly into the future.

He could see despotism on the march in countries with newspapers under the thumb of government. He could see freedom on the march where the press was free.

No other term than "Fourth Estate" could adequately describe the function of a free press—not quite a part of parliament—but not outside it either.

It's the same today.

The press gallery staff of The Canadian Press, the daily newspapers' co-operative association, and reporters assigned to the gallery by individual newspapers, inform millions of Canadians daily on the debates and decisions that affect their daily lives. These journalists serve as a guarantee that the smallest act of government shall be fairly reported to the people—a built-in barrier against encroachment on freedoms taken so much for granted.

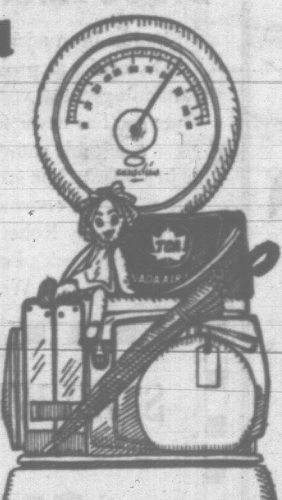

You have only to pick up your newspaper to read it all. News from Ottawa. News from everywhere. Keep abreast of the world every day . . . in your daily newspaper.

"What should you weigh before you fly to Europe or Britain?"

Not your luggage - just the facts!

TCA's free baggage allowance is ample for most people. What you should weigh carefully, before you make your summer travel plans, are the facts about TCA jet services, Vancouver to Europe or Britain. (They're bound to make a difference to your trip!)

Going-to-Europe facts: From Vancouver by TCA—only daily same-airline jet services to Paris and the Continent □ TCA's DC-8 Giant Jets link Vancouver with more European destinations than any other airline □ France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Ireland.

Going-to-Britain facts: Only TCA flies Vancouver-Britain—no change of plane (there are other ways to Britain, but none more direct!) □ Three Hudson Bay Route jets a week—the shortest and fastest way to Britain □ Up to nine other DC-8 Giant jets via Montreal □ Most frequent through flights □ Britain—twelve a week in all, this summer □ No lower jet fares—and extra savings available by BOAC turbo-prop Britannias from Eastern Canada.

Hospitality-and-experience facts: Start your holiday en route: enjoy superb meals planned by TCA's European-trained chefs □ Impeccable cabin service by both Canadian and European hostesses □ TCA, Canada's most experienced transatlantic airline and eighth largest in the world, is now in its twentieth year of flying Canadians overseas.

Weigh the facts: This summer, fly TCA to Europe or Britain

Sample Economy Jet return fares from Victoria*

London $72.30 down $28.99 monthly (24 mos.)
(full fare $714.30)

Paris $76.20 down $30.76 monthly (24 mos.)
(full fare $757.20)

See your travel agent or contact your TCA or BOAC office for full details about TCA's summer services to Europe or Britain.

'Wicked' Con Man Gets Three Years

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced a man he described as "wicked and unregenerate" to three years in the penitentiary Monday on each of three charges of false pretences and one of forgery.

William Orra Bishop of Vancouver will serve the sentences concurrently.

Bishop, first convicted of false pretences as far back as 1926, used bonds stolen in Manitoba to obtain money from banks in Victoria, Esquimalt, Colwood and Langley City.

Since his first conviction he has piled up a criminal record in Canada and the United States for forgery, possession of stolen goods, uttering false documents, vagrancy and breaking and entering.

Muttered Bishop in an aside, "Some luck."

The film, "Dangerous Stranger" will be shown at a meeting of the Lake Hill PTA at 8 tonight.

There will also be an election of officers for the coming year.

DISTILLERS FOR OVER 100 YEARS

At the Movies

THE LION
Odeon Theatre
Charging rhinos, short-tempered lions and exasperated bull elephants, roaring across the veldt, provide the background for this 20th Century-Fox version of the eternal triangle—two men and a lovely woman sharing the same roof in Kenya, East Africa.

Through all this excitement, the stately Capucine moves as serenely as if she were modelling the latest in Paris stylings, while Trevor Howard is the kind of Englishman who has more than once looked his rhinoceros in the eye—and lived to carry the white man's burden through some sticky situations.

But William Holden keeps the Stars and Stripes flying as a big-city American lawyer who faces up to the realities of being charged by a bull elephant and having his neck breathed on by a lion which is in no mood for courtroom niceties.

The star of the show, in my opinion, is 12-year-old Pamela Franklin. In spite of her clipped English accent and pretty high school mannerisms, she seems more at home with the lords of the jungle than her adult companions—even the tough-skinned Trevor Howard.

And her lively sparkling countenance is in odd contrast to the statuesque calm of her screen mother—the imperturbable Capucine. No lion goes near Mother. If it did, I am sure she would soon put it in its place with a long cold stare.

Anyhow, Pamela adopts a lion cub and raises it as a king of the jungle, obedient to her slightest will. There is an exciting scene when she introduces her father (William Holden) to the lion and makes him advance one pace at a time—so as not to rush the introduction, as it were.

Father does as he's told, but slips on the third step, whereupon the lion lets out the kind of roar which shakes the Odeon Theatre.

There is some fine melodrama in this film, as when William Holden rescues Ol-Kalu, a dying African chief, who in accordance with custom has been abandoned to the elements and the jungle beasts in his final hours.

This to Holden is straight North American Christianity, but it causes all kinds of bad feeling among the native tribes. And Trevor Howard (still carrying the white man's burden) tells him:

"We never interfere with native traditions."

The story, based on a novel by Joseph Kessel, is not altogether convincing, but it is backed with competent acting and imaginative outdoor photography. As a documentary on East Africa alone, it is well worth seeing, and there is a splendid musical score by Malcolm Arnold, charged with exotic sounds and lively tempos.

Companion feature is "The Wedding of the Year," an excellent color record of the marriage of Princess Alexandra to Hon. Angus Ogilvy, filmed in Westminster Abbey.

Scottish Cadets Shine In Annual Inspection

Annual inspection of Canadian Scottish Cadet Corps Friday was attended by Brig. John F. Adam, former commander of 25 Militia Group, who presented awards to outstanding members of the unit.

Four members of the unit—aged 14-17—qualified for Master Cadet award: T. D. Osland, D. B. Tulloch, Van Klaveren and R. C. Sluggert.

Recreational shooting awards went to G. E. Howarth, G. L. Howarth, J. A. Reimer, D. A. Hood and J. E. Clark.

Seven others shared four trophies: Sgt. Ed Davies trophy, J. MacSturdy; H. A. Biles trophy, G. B. Hamilton; corps attendance trophy, D. T. Osland, G. L. Graham, D. A. Hood and R. A. Erlendson; S. J. McDonald trophy and WA burary, D. T. Osland.

Oak Bay Residents Take Over Cleanup

Works committee Monday readily endorsed an offer by Mrs. Doris Rayson, 2463 Plumer, on behalf of her neighbors to paint a municipal fence, spread topsoil, plant and care for a vacant lawn provided council supplies the materials.

The fence and adjoining boulevard are now quite run down and detract from the appearance of the rest of the street . . . I have contacted the residents and they are quite willing to help with this community project," Mrs. Rayson wrote the committee.

"Cheap maintenance, that is," remarked Reeve George Murdoch with a grin. "We need more of those kind of people."

Esquimalt branch of the Royal Canadian Legion will meet tonight at 8 in the main hall, 622 Admirals Road.

East German Newsmen Held

BONN (Reuters)—West German police have detained four East German journalists here and rounded up others in West Germany on suspicion of espionage, the justice ministry said today.

Czechs Purge Two Leaders

VIENNA (UPI)—Communist Czechoslovakia today disclosed the purge of its former secret police chief, Karol Bacilek, and another old-line Communist, Bruno Koehler, from their leading party posts.

The Czech government announcement said both were dismissed from the party's central committee, which means Bacilek has lost his post on the nine-man ruling presidium as well, and Koehler is out as one of the six secretaries of the central committee.

No reason was given for the purge, but both leaders are old-line Stalinists closely identified with the harsh policies of the late president Klement Gottwald.

Radar Failure Delays Cooper Flight 24 Hours

Money Crisis In UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A June deadline hangs over the United Nations General Assembly as it opens a special session on financing today.

Current authorization for expenditures on the UN's two major peace-keeping operations—the Congo force and the emergency force in the Middle East—expires on that date. The special session is charged with working out a method of paying for them in the last six months of the year.

In the background is the larger UN financial dilemma, brought on by chronic indebtedness of some members and the refusal of a number, including the Soviet bloc, to pay costs of the peace-keeping operations.

PART PAYMENT

A UN source said today that four countries—Cuba, Hungary, Paraguay and the United Arab Republic—have paid enough of their assessments in the last few days to avoid any danger of losing their voting rights.

A fifth country, Haiti, was expected to pay up today.

Article 19 of the UN charter specifies that any member more than two years in arrears "shall have no vote in the General Assembly." Unless the assembly decides that failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the member's control.

While a long-term solution is not expected to be taken up before the regular 24th assembly session opens in the fall, a UN source said Monday that Secretary-General U Thant is working on an austerity budget for next year.

The informant also reported encouraging results in a drive to collect arrears. Since the start of the year about 40 members have paid up between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000, leaving a balance outstanding of about $106,000,000, due mostly to the unpaid assessments for the Congo and Middle East forces.

APPROVE SPENDING

For these two groups, the special assembly will be asked to approve spending of $42,500,000 in the last six months of this year—$33,000,000 for the Congo force and $9,500,000 for the UNEF.

The United States has been covering almost half the costs of the two forces. But recently the U.S. has insisted that it will not go on paying more than its regular 32.02-per-cent assessment unless other countries pay up their arrears. Most observers believe the U.S. will keep up at least part of its voluntary payments.

The assembly is also expected to vote for admittance of the 11th UN member—the tiny Persian Gulf Sheikhdom of Kuwait.

U.S. Permits Fares Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board bowed today to diplomatic pressure and agreed not to penalize United States airlines if they put into effect a five per cent increase in air fares on Atlantic routes.

State Secretary Rusk had suggested that in the absence of C.A.B. authority to regulate rates in international air transportation the C.A.B. should permit Pan-American World Airways and Trans World Airlines to adopt the higher rates approved by the International Air Transport Association last fall.

Britain had threatened to take steps to prevent operation of U.S. lines into that country unless they adopted the higher rates.

New Violence In Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Uncertainty and apprehension continued to grip this racially-troubled city today as 3,000 combat-ready troops stood within striking distance in the event of new outbreaks of major violence.

Scattered violence was reported during the night. Two persons were hurt. Automobile windshields were smashed and windows were broken in about a dozen buildings.

A white youth was slashed on his right elbow with a knife. He said he was attacked by a group of Negroes. A Negro man was admitted to hospital after he was struck in the face by a large steel ball fired from a slingshot, apparently wielded by a white youth.

Police arrested two Negroes early today in connection with attacks on officers during the Sunday riot. Carl Ivory, 53, was charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder, police Capt. B. F. Walker said. Erskine Brown, 26, was charged with one count of assault with a deadly weapon—a rock.

APPEAL BY KING

Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Monday night, went through the city's Negro community and in pool halls and on street corners urging his listeners to discard their knives and clubs.

Mayor Albert Boutwell urged President Kennedy to remove the threat of federal troops. He said that while he did not question Kennedy's motive, he did question the information on which he had acted.

Meanwhile, in Nashville, Tenn., Negro students, demanding desegregation of all public accommodation, clashed with police and rock-throwing whites in a noisy two-hour demonstration Monday night.

Athletes Praise Courage

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Jackie Robinson says Birmingham's image is being reflected throughout the world as one of brutality—as "one of a dog snapping at the guts of a Negro."

The former baseball star said his decision to come to Birmingham was made after he saw a picture of a dog tearing at a Negro man's shirt. "When I saw that picture, I decided what I had to do," he said. "I had to come down here and express my appreciation to the Negroes here for what they are doing for Negroes everywhere."

Robinson and Floyd Patterson, former heavyweight boxing champion, arrived Monday night and appeared at a mass rally. They said they wanted to express appreciation for "your courage in this fight for the rights of Negroes everywhere."

Balky Diesel Causes Trouble

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper's big try for 22 orbits around the earth, unexpectedly postponed today after a radar failure in Bermuda, has been scheduled for another attempt Wednesday.

Soon after today's flight was called off, only 12 minutes before blastoff, space officials were setting a new time.

At 7 p.m. EDT today the radar system will be checked again.

If all is going well, Cooper will repeat the whole process Wednesday, with the takeoff scheduled for somewhere between 9 and 11:30 a.m. EDT. If not, there will be further delays.

Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operation director, made the announcement at a press conference. He pointed out that the radar system is essential in making sure that the astronaut is entering space successfully.

"We could not, we would not go without it," Williams said.

SAME WEATHER EXPECTED
When Cooper was informed of the scrub, his only comment was:

"This was a very realistic simulation." The remark was relayed by Williams.

Williams also said the weather prediction for Wednesday is approximately the same as for today.

Liquid oxygen will be removed from the giant Atlas booster, but it is not necessary to scrub out the tanks as it has been on previous flights. Space officials said that the Bermuda radar is the sole problem as of now in determining whether the flight will go Wednesday.

As for the astronaut, he got out of his capsule at 12:27 p.m. today. He had been in the space ship for five hours, 50 minutes.

PREVIOUS DELAY

The postponement came as an anti-climax after earlier troubles not connected with the Bermuda radar had held up the scheduled launching for two hours, nine minutes.

That trouble was caused by a balky diesel engine designed to move the giant service tower away from the launching pad. It was necessary to replace a fuel pump and purge foreign matter from the fuel line before the engine could operate.

Indications of the radar trouble came only about 15 minutes before the launching was called off. The tracking station at Bermuda said it was experiencing intermittent difficulty, but Mercury control officials decided to continue the countdown in case the radar could be repaired.

But technicians at Bermuda reported minutes later that it would be impossible to replace the equipment today and the shot was called off.

SENDS SIGNALS

The radar, described as FPS-16, is a 12-foot-diameter dish designed to send radio signals to the spacecraft as it rises over Bermuda about five minutes after launching. The signal triggers a device called a radio transponder in the spacecraft. By measuring the time it takes a signal to travel from the Bermuda station to the spacecraft and then back to Bermuda, computers can determine precise velocity and the altitude of the astronaut's vehicle.

This information would be essential for determining whether Cooper had achieved the proper orbital course. If

CHURCHILL ... after year's absence

Warm Welcome For Winnie In Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Members of the House of Commons stood and waved their agenda papers in a warm welcome to Sir Winston Churchill when he paid what they sensed could be one of his last visits to the House today.

On May 2, Britain's wartime leader announced that he would not be running as a candidate at the next general election because of his increasing immobility since he broke a thigh-bone last summer.

As he entered the Parliament buildings, he doffed his hat and waved and smiled to the crowd.

His son-in-law, Agriculture Minister Christopher Soames, helped him as he went into the debating chamber. There at the entrance, he smiled acknowledgment of the members' welcome.

GREETED BY MACMILLAN
Prime Minister Macmillan moved along the seats to greet him.

Macmillan said: "At the risk of being out of order, I think the whole House would wish me to welcome most warmly my right honorable friend the member for Woodford (Churchill) on his return to the House of Commons after his accident and to say how glad we are to welcome our most distinguished member."

Harold Wilson, leader of the Opposition Labor party, said he also would like to say how much Labor members welcome "the sight of the right honorable gentleman coming into this chamber after his accident."

"We are glad to see him fully restored that he can be with us again. The whole House will join with the prime minister in giving him the warmest possible welcome."

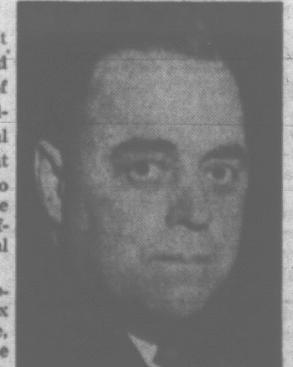

Churchill, who first appeared in the House as long ago as 1900, looked fit and well. He was obviously delighted to be back again after nearly a year's absence.

CAOQUETTE 'SHOT DOWN' BY THOMPSON'S DENIAL

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit leader Robert Thompson said Monday it was "a fabrication of somebody's imagination" to allege—as Deputy Leader Real CAOquette did last weekend—that Social Credit members tried to negotiate a deal to keep the Diefenbaker government in office after the April 8 general election.

At the same time, Mr. Thompson said in an interview that six Social Credit MPs who gave, and later repudiated, a promise of support for a Liberal government had broken an agreement not to participate in any deals as a result of the indecisive outcome of the election.

Mr. CAOquette has said the six acted to forestall a keep-Diefenbaker-in-power move in which he implicated Dr. Guy Marchoux, the party's parliamentary whip. Dr. Marchoux resigned his Quebec party membership Saturday and announced he will sit as an Independent Social Credit member in the parliamentary session which opens Thursday.

Mr. Thompson said Dr. Marchoux will be invited to attend the caucus of Social Credit MPs Wednesday, adding that he hopes it will be possible to bring MP for Quebec-Montmorency back into these strategy sessions on a regular basis afterwards.

Children's Salute To Queen Victoria Celebration Climax

The annual, week-long Greater Victoria celebrations will build to a climax Friday, May 24, when 1,800 children will take part in the IODE salute to Queen Victoria on her birthdate.

For the first time in many years, the colorful ceremony will be staged on the actual anniversary of the Queen's birth.

It will climax the week's celebrations heralded by the current Jaycee Fair. Usually the event is held on the Friday preceding Victoria Day festivities.

GRADE SIX STUDENTS
The boys and girls taking part will be grade 6 pupils from Greater Victoria schools, Girl Guides, and St. John Ambulance and United Services Clubs.

The band of S. J. Willis Junior High School under the direction of Howard Denike will provide music for the service.

Rev. A. C. Hamill, representing the Greater Victoria Ministerial Association, will give the prayer, and Mrs. George E. Tait, of Toronto, national education secretary of the IODE, will be the main speaker.

STATUE SENTRIES
IODE sentries will be posted at the base of Queen Victoria's statue at 10:40 a.m., and the service will begin at 10:45 with a ceremonial parade led by standard bearers.

Flower girls will place wreaths on the statue at the conclusion of the service.

Grade 6 pupils and the band will be seated on the legislature steps, while cadets and guides will form ranks on the grass.

At conclusion of the wreath-laying, participants will proceed along Belleville and across Government to Thunderbird Park, where they will disperse.

The grade 6 pupils will come from every Victoria elementary school, and Monterey in Oak Bay, Macaulay in Esquimalt, Tillicum and Tolmie in Saanich, and View Royal Elementary. There will be about 45 teachers in charge of the pupils. J. H. Bigsby will conduct the group singing.

TOOTLING TUNEFULLY to practise up for Victoria Day parade is Mike Gill, 13, of the Victoria Boys' Band. Waiting with tuba and drum at the ready are Bob Cadwallader and Artie Wood, both 10. One of the youngest bands in Canada, with an average age under 12, the boys' band has just returned from a stint of marching in the Bellingham Blossomtime parade last weekend. All 35 of them will march May 20 under the direction of leader Reg Wood. They are holding a tag day on May 25 to raise money for new instruments and uniform replacements.

Clip This Handy Holiday Program For Fun Weekend

The one coming up will be a go-go-go long weekend in Victoria.

And no matter how fast you go you won't be able to take in all the events being held to celebrate Victoria Day. The program includes cycle races, swimming heats, horse shows, car racing, a speedboat regatta, numerous concerts, baseball, dancing, a variety show and a carnival.

Here is a detailed program as arranged by Greater Victoria Celebrations Association:

SATURDAY—MAY 18

9 a.m., Victoria Riding Academy Junior Horse Show, 2301 Cedar Hill Cross Road; 10 a.m., Cycling Club races at Beacon Hill Park and Canadian Amateur Swimming heats at Crystal Garden; 1 p.m., Senior baseball doubleheader at Royal Athletic Park.

The Jaycee Spring Fair will be open all day Saturday, ending with the selection of the new Miss Victoria in the evening.

The junior horse show will continue in the afternoon and there will be a diving and swimming competition at Crystal Garden both afternoon and in the evening at 6 p.m.

At the Cameron Bandshell in Beacon Hill Park the Ingham High School of Seattle will present "Spring Music Festival" at 2 p.m., and Vancouver Island Track Racing Association will hold auto races at 7:30 p.m. at Western Speedway.

SUNDAY—MAY 19

Victoria Inboard and Outboard Speedboat Regatta will be held at 1 p.m. on Elk Lake and at 1:30 the scramble races of Victoria Motorcycle Club at Old Colwood Fair grounds.

The highlight of the day, the crowning of the May Queen, will take place at 2:30 in front of the Legislative Buildings.

At the same time the Central High School choir of Independence, Wash., will present a concert at Cameron Bandshell and East Bremerton High School will give a band concert at Kinsmen Gorge Park.

Two 3 o'clock concerts will be held: At Hampton Park the Mount Vernon Union High School Band will perform and at Willows Park the entertainment will be provided by Edmonds High School Band.

An exhibition of dancing by the Alma Squares and the Nanaimo Legion Majorettes will be given at 3:30 in Beacon Hill Park. The day's activities will conclude with a mixed concert at Veterans' Hospital in late afternoon and evening.

MONDAY—MAY 20

Monday the grand parade through the city centre will begin at 10 a.m. from Pembroke and Cook. Pre-parade entertainment will be provided for the crowd at various points along the route.

The route is along Cook to Pandora, to Quadra, to Yates, along Douglas past City Hall to Fisgard, down to Government, and along Government to the Empress Hotel, where the parade will disperse at Belleville.

The Ralph Meeker Carnival from Tacoma, Wash., will be open beside Memorial Arena Monday afternoon and evening. At 1 p.m. there will be a ball game at Royal Athletic Park and at 1:30, auto racing at Western Speedway.

The 33rd annual open horse show of Victoria Riding Club is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. also, and at 1:30 p.m. there will be more scramble races at Old Colwood Fair grounds.

A variety show featuring Fred Usher and the Home-owners' Orchestra will begin at 1:45 at Cameron Bandshell. Evening shows will be the Victoria Operatic Society presentation of Greig's "Song of Norway" at 8:15 in Royal Theatre and the Memorial Arena concert and dance.

At 8 p.m. there will be pre-show entertainment at the Arena by Victoria City Pipe Band. At 9:30 the Vancouver Island Western Show Dance Round-Up will be held and at 9:30 the Seattle Police Drill Team will show "Blackout" precision marching.

Arthur Mayse

Sing Victoria's praises and you wake echoes all over the place. Here's one from Truro, Nova Scotia, where a gent with handwriting even worse than mine, but with the soul of a poet, remembers our city kindly.

"Surely in Victoria," says David Whitty, "it is always ripe summer weather gently dropping into fall. I remember a still noon. The bartlett let go and plump on the grass. The chickadees pursue their small inscrutable affairs through the apple trees to the deep boredom of the contralto Siamese among the dahlias..."

"Or it is a royal morning on the corner of Douglas and Fort. I am out of soundings for the moment when a friendly citizen stops to offer me course and distance, and has time to chat for a while, too. I liked that."

"Cedar smoke incense-sweet on the gentle Pacific air; that is the signature, that and the precious firs. Here on this bitter Atlantic coast I love so well, it is astringent spruce and codfish drying on the flakes. That will make the Maritimers mad just because they know it's true."

"He shall have dominion from sea to sea." The parts between, you may have—for the taxes for all of me. When the sheriff runs me out of N.S., I shall streak for the Coast—gagging for salt air all the way. I left my watch in Victoria, but that's nothing. I left my heart there, too."

Well, Truro's a fine town in spite of the codfish, but for a man who feels as Mr. Whitty does, there's only one proper haven. All he need do... and how nice that our slogan's official again... is follow the birds."

No names, but the ever-young lady who passed on this bit of Victoriana insists it's true.

One of our young couples, says she, a while ago went all out to buy a stately old white elephant of a home because they fell in love with its faded elegance.

Stretched to the limit of their finances, the kids were mourning because they could not leap into a restoration when a visitor paused under one of the lighting fixtures that dangle from the high ceilings.

"That's priceless!" was the verdict; and while not entirely accurate, it comes close enough.

Offers made for just one of these intricate and lovely pieces run to four figures, and the dazzled pair are wondering whether they should accept.

They need the money, but it was partly because of those splendid fixtures that they bought the place.

Speaking of Victoria's houses of an earlier day, Rebel Mowat bleeds a little when one of them is demolished.

"In some of those places," our dean of rubberneck tour drivers tells me, "you'll find redwood planks that came from California, the kind of lumber they just don't mill anymore."

When the Old Charming Inn tumbled, Rebel bled a full pint.

"I used to drive by with my load," says he, "and point out the place, and tell them Rudyard Kipling once stayed there. What am I going to tell them now?"

A shrewd observer of the tourist, Rebel Mowat feels we offer him a pretty good menu by day, but fall short on evening entertainment.

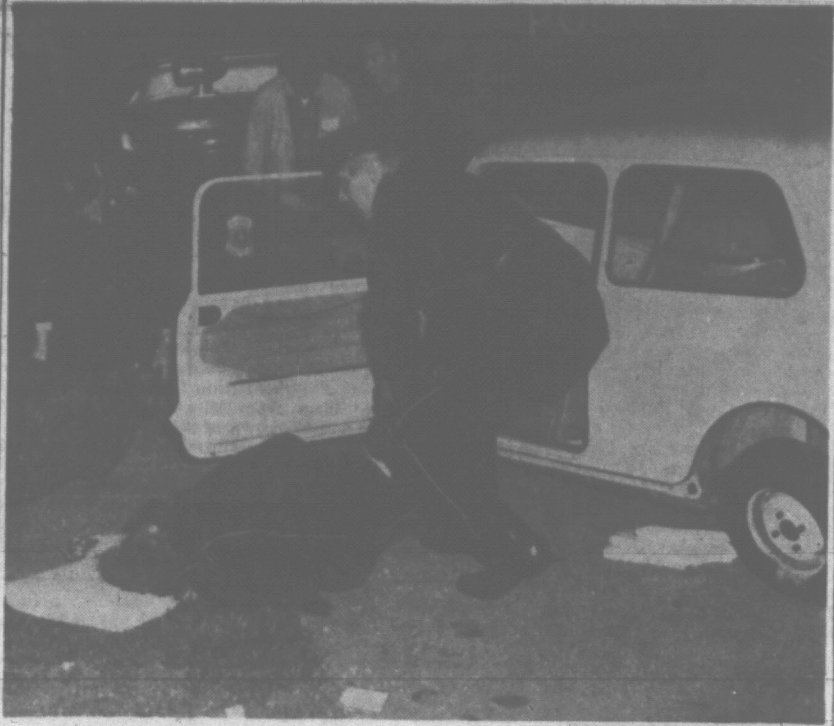

No use to break out in a rash of American-styled diversions, though, because the summer guest can claim bigger and better at home. Rebel has an idea or two of his own about what would appeal, but prefers to keep these under wraps for the present.

Butchart's Gardens remains our prime tourist attraction, he finds.

"Here's a funny thing about human nature," he reflects. "When there was no admission charge, people took pains to keep the gardens clean."

"Now they pay to get in, that's changed. A lot of visitors feel free to drop stuff any old place."

So much for this green and leafy day, except in observe that it's unwise to leave your summer resort booking too long. Indications are that last year's slump won't be repeated.

POLICE OF THE AREA are hoping the scene above will be absent in the rush of holiday weekend traffic. They are asking for extra care in driving. The picture shows the removal to hospital of a 60-year-old woman

Woman, Boy Hurt In Road Mishaps

A 60-year-old woman on her way home from work Monday night and an 11-year-old boy on his way to school this morning were injured in traffic accidents.

Rush Hour Parkers Face Bigger Fines

Motorists who park in the restricted curbside lanes during the rush hour will find it an expensive habit if city council adopts a works committee recommendation.

Committee today urged raising the fine from $2.50 to $5 for a first offence and $10 for each subsequent offence.

The restrictions prohibit parking or stopping between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. on selected downtown traffic routes. Committee was told an entire traffic lane could be blocked by a single illegally-parked car.

Committee turned down a request by lawyer David Hummel for immediate permission to proceed with construction of proposed Glenarry Private Hospital in the Fairfield-Chandler area.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said the promoters' decision to begin moving soil on the controversial project before a building permit was issued "has stirred up a hornet's nest and has embarrassed city council."

The hospital project was vehemently opposed by a large number of nearby residents but council overrode their objections after undertaking to withhold a building permit until all construction plans were approved and the 16-lot property consolidated into a single parcel.

Creation of a 200-foot parking strip on the west side of Douglas, south of Humboldt, for tourist buses from the mainland was recommended by committee. The strip, accommodating about five buses, would be reserved June 1 to Sept. 15.

Intermunicipal committee will be asked to study possible methods of persuading Greater Victoria school board to permit more use of playground and gymnasium facilities by amateur sports groups.

Mayor R. B. Wilson pointed out the city threw open its enclosed parks for free use by amateur sports and he thought the school board should reconsider its present policy of charging basketball teams $6 an hour for use of a gymnasium.

Lieutenant Barry Gallant, 532 Dallas Road, has been promoted to the rank of captain. An officer with the First Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Captain Gallant is a graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston.

The 24th Field Regiment (Militia) of the Royal Canadian Artillery will conduct a seaward firing practice at Albert Head Camp, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Weapons used will be 105 millimetre howitzers.

Victoria Aqua Ski Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at 575 Johnson Street.

St. Alban's 50-Up Club will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 in the parish hall.

Call More Tenders, Government Advised

A "bumper year" for B.C. construction, with a 16.5 per cent increase over last year's program, was forecast today in Victoria by the president of the Canadian Construction Association.

Thomas A. Somerville of Toronto said B.C. will have the largest increase of any province, due in large measure to the Peace River power project.

Mr. Somerville put the construction total for the province this year at $900,000,000 and said it represented a per capita expenditure of $540—$25 above the per capita expenditure in the four western provinces and $135 above the national average.

MAJOR PROBLEM

Even with this increased program, though, Mr. Somerville said the industry in B.C. still faced a major problem common to the industry across Canada—over-capacity.

One way the industry hoped to overcome the problem was by persuading governments at all levels to put all possible work out to tender rather than to do it with their own machines and crews.

Government competition with private contractors is still prevalent in B.C., Mr. Somerville said, and more so than in any other province except Saskatchewan.

"We feel the government as tax collectors should not compete with the tax-paying private construction industry," he declared.

The construction association feels that it is wasteful for governments to invest large sums of money in construction equipment to do work which could be done at least as cheaply and efficiently by putting out tenders to private contractors.

OUT TO TENDER

He pointed out that while the provincial public works department put all construction work out to tender, the highways department was engaged in direct competition with private industry in a considerable volume of work.

Mr. Somerville, who is visiting Victoria during a tour of western branches of the association, was met here by George Farmer, president of Farmer Construction Co. Ltd. of Victoria and a vice-president of the association.

PPCLI Cadets Thrill Crowd In Sunset Drill

First 1963 sunset service drew some 200 spectators Monday night; as 35 army cadets paraded.

They were members of 2483 Corps, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Cadets. They will be followed by 15 other parades to mid-June, at the legislative buildings.

A color party struck the red ensign as the sun went down over the unit and its band, following a display of drill.

Cadets were inspected by Ald. J. L. W. McLean.

Tonight's services will be taken by 2289 Cadet Corps RCA, Wednesday by RCSCC Rainbow, Thursday by 2136 Canadian Scottish Regiment Cadet Corps, Friday by 89 Kinsmen Air Cadets.

Millworker Hurt

A B.C. Forest Products worker was injured Monday when a log rolled off a log-carrier and hit him.

Hurman Speidel, 44, of 1615 Burton Avenue, is reported in satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

NEAR WASHOUT IN CURLING RINK

Cows Cut Out But Crowd Corralled

By MARGE GILROY

Everybody came to the opening night of the fair but the Ayshire cattle.

An estimated 10,000 people—a record first-night crowd, attended.

But some mixup delayed the cattle. They were expected today.

Warm, sunny weather brought out mom, dad and the kiddies.

When the gates opened

every man was at his post and all was running smoothly.

Only hours before a swimming pool with 30,000 gallons of water had sprung a leak and flooded the floor of the Curling Rink. But now that was water under the bridge.

All emergencies that arose, and there were many, were quickly answered by red-shirted Jaycees.

A rush order went out for more hot dogs. Heaters were installed for the chimpanzees, Tipple and Cobina, who were unhappy over the coastal climate.

But outside headquarters all was well. The crowds sauntered about, unconcerned with what might be happening backstage.

In every corner there was an attraction.

An automatic food blender dispensing tasty samples and a see-yourself television vied for the largest crowds.

Youngsters, performing antics, were delighted at seeing their own image.

The final Jimmie Rodgers show provided a pleasant reprieve for many weary feet as an almost packed arena sat back to watch the acrobatic and juggling skills of Tommy Blecker.

Before the curtain went up, Miss Synnove Pettersen, winner of last year's Miss Victoria contest, officially opened the exhibition.

Ask The Times

Q. What is trephining? R. M. P.

A. Trephining is perhaps the oldest surgical operation known. It makes a small opening in the skull by means of an instrument called a trephine, a small cylinder with cutting teeth on the edge. Trephine openings have been found in ancient skulls, indicating that the operation was practised quite widely in prehistoric times.

'Wicked' Con Man Gets Three Years

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced a man he described as "wicked and unregenerate" to three years in the penitentiary Monday on each of three charges of false pretences and one of forgery.

William Orra Bishop of Vancouver will serve the sentence concurrently.

Bishop, first convicted of false pretences as far back as 1926, used bonds stolen in Manitoba to obtain money from banks in Victoria, Esquimalt, Colwood and Langley City.

Since his first conviction he has piled up a criminal record in Canada and the United States for forgery, possession of stolen goods, uttering false documents, vagrancy and breaking and entering.

In passing sentence in Esquimalt police court, Magistrate Ostler told the accused he was "lucky."

Muttered Bishop in an aside, "Some luck."

The film, "Dangerous Stranger," will be shown at a meeting of the Lake Hill PTA at 8 tonight.

There will also be an election of officers for the coming year.

THE LION

Odeon Theatre

Charging rhinos, short-tempered lions and exasperated bull elephants, roaring across the veldt, provide the background for this 20th Century-Fox version of the eternal triangle—two men and a lovely woman sharing the same roof in Kenya, East Africa.

Through all this excitement, the stately Capucine moves as serenely as if she were modeling the latest in Paris styling, while Trevor Howard is the kind of Englishman who has more than once looked his rhinoceros in the eye—and lived to carry the white man's burden through some sticky situations.

But William Holden keeps the Stars and Stripes flying as a big-city American lawyer who faces up to the realities of being charged by a bull elephant and having his neck breathed on by a lion which is in no mood for courtroom niceties.

The star of the show, in my opinion, is 12-year-old Pamela Franklin. In spite of her clipped English accent and pretty high school mannerisms, she seems more at home with the lords of the jungle than her adult companions—even the tough-skinned Trevor Howard.

And her lively sparkling countenance is in odd contrast to the statuesque calm of her screen mother—the imperturbable Capucine. No lion goes near Mother. If it did, I am sure she would soon put it in its place with a long cold stare.

Anyhow, Pamela adopts a lion cub and raises it as a king of the jungle, obedient to her slightest will. There is an exciting scene when she introduces her father (William Holden) to the lion and makes him advance one pace at a time—so as not to rush the introduction, as it were.

Father does as he's told but slips on the third step, whereupon the lion lets out the kind of roar which shakes the Odeon Theatre.

There is some fine melodrama in this film, as when William Holden rescues Ol' Kalu, a dying African chief, in accordance with custom has been abandoned to the elements and the jungle beasts in his final hours.

This to Holden is straight North American Christianity, but it causes all kinds of bad feeling among the native tribes. And Trevor Howard (still carrying the white man's burden) tells him:

"We never interfere with native traditions."

The story, based on a novel by Joseph Kessel, is not altogether convincing, but it is backed with competent acting and imaginative outdoor photography. As a documentary on East Africa alone, it is well worth seeing, and there is a splendid musical score by Malcolm Arnold, charged with exotic sounds and lively tempos.

Companion feature is "The Wedding of the Year," an excellent color record of the marriage of Princess Alexandra to Hon. Angus Ogilvy, filmed in Westminster Abbey.

Scottish Cadets Shine In Annual Inspection

Annual Inspection of Canadian Scottish Cadet Corps Friday was attended by Brig. John F. Adam, former commander of 25 Militia Group, who presented awards to outstanding members of the unit.

The presentations were seen by more than 200 parents and friends of the corps, assembled in Bay Street Armoury.

Four members of the unit—aged 14-17—qualified for Master Cadet award: T. D. Osland, D. B. Tulloch, Van Klaveren and R. C. Sluggett.

Recreational shooting awards went to G. E. Howarth, G. L. Howarth, J. A. Reimer, D. A. Hood and J. E. Clark.

Seven others shared four trophies: Sgt. Ed Davies trophy, J. MacSturdy; H. A. Biles trophy, G. B. Hamilton; corps attendance trophy, D. T. Osland, G. L. Graham, D. A. Hood and R. A. Eriandson; S. J. McDonald trophy and WA bursary, D. T. Osland.

Oak Bay Residents Take Over Cleanup

Keeping their homesites tidy is habit-forming for some Oak Bay citizens—now they want to take over a municipal job in their neighborhood.

Works committee Monday readily endorsed an offer by Mrs. Doris Rayson, 2465 Plumer, on behalf of her neighbors to paint a municipal fence, spread topsoil, plant and care for a vacant lawn provided council supplies the materials.

"The fence and adjoining boulevard are now quite run down and detract from the appearance of the rest of the street... I have contacted the residents and they are quite willing to help with this community project," Mrs. Rayson wrote the committee.

"Cheap maintenance, that is," remarked Reeve George Murdoch with a grin. "We need more of those kind of people."

Esquimalt-branch of the Royal Canadian Legion will meet tonight at 8 in the main hall, 622 Admirals Road.

B.C. Lions May Lose Larscheid

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tom Larscheid, rookie sensation of the B.C. Lions' backfield in the 1962 Western Football Conference season, may have been knocked out of action for the 1963 season by a smashed knee.

Larscheid suffered the knee injury Saturday in an exhibition game at Logan, Utah. First reports indicated injury to either or both the ligament and cartilage.

Alberta Indians Flee Floods

HABAY, Alta. (CP)—About 350 persons fled from this Slave Indian settlement on the Hay River about 300 miles northwest of Edmonton as floods swamped the area during the last few days.

The last evacuees were to be taken by boat from the community today to the area of the Roman Catholic mission residential school at Assumption, nine miles north of here.

Life Term for Montreal Youth

MONTREAL (CP)—Michel Tremblay, who became 18 years old four days after stabbing another youth, was convicted today of capital murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

He escaped the mandatory death penalty on the capital murder conviction because he was less than 18 at the time of the crime.

IWA Counting Strike Vote Ballots

PORTLAND (AP)—A spokesman for the International Woodworkers of America said today the union is starting to count ballots on a strike vote involving the so-called "big six" of the U.S. West Coast lumber industry.

The union called for the vote to back up contract demands, including a 40-cent-an-hour wage increase as part of a three-year contract.

Rampaging Kurds Under Air Attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Iraqi air force planes were reported today to be bombing rebellious Kurdish tribesmen in northern Iraq.

Travelers arriving from Baghdad said the Kurds have been on a rampage for three days near the oil centre of Kirkuk, and local inhabitants are afraid to move out of their towns at night.

Finance Crisis
Looming in UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A June deadline hangs over the United Nations General Assembly as it opens a special session on financing today.

Current authorization for expenditures on the UN's two major peace-keeping operations—The Congo force and the emergency force in the Middle East—expires on that date. The special session is charged with working out a method of paying for them in the last six months of the year.

In the background is the larger UN financial dilemma, brought on by chronic indebtedness of some members and the refusal of a number, including the Soviet bloc, to pay costs of the peace-keeping operations.

PART PAYMENT

A UN source said today that four countries—Cuba, Hungary, Paraguay and the United Arab Republic—have paid enough of their assessments in the last few days to avoid any danger of losing their voting rights.

A fifth country, Haiti, was expected to pay up today.

Article 19 of the UN charter specifies that any member more than two years in arrears "shall have no vote in the General Assembly." Unless the assembly decides that failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the member's control.

While a long-term solution is not expected to be taken up before the regular 18th assembly session opens in the fall, a UN source said Monday that Secretary-General U Thant is working on an austerity budget for next year.

The informant also reported encouraging results in a drive to collect arrears. Since the start of the year about 40 members have paid up between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000, leaving a balance outstanding of about $106,000,000, due mostly to the unpaid assessments for The Congo and Middle East forces.

APPROVE SPENDING

For these two groups, the special assembly will be asked to approve spending of $42,500,000 in the last six months of this year—$33,000,000 for The Congo force and $9,500,000 for the UNEF.

The United States has been covering almost half the costs of the two forces. But recently the U.S. has insisted that it will not go on paying more than its regular 32.02-per-cent assessment unless other countries pay up their arrears. Most observers believe the U.S. will keep up at least part of its voluntary payments.

The assembly is also expected to vote for admittance of the 11th UN member—the tiny Persian Gulf Sheikhdom of Kuwait.

East German
Newsmen Held

BONN (Reuters)—West German police have detained four East German journalists here and rounded up others in West Germany on suspicion of espionage, the justice ministry said today.

Police said cities where East German journalists had been detained included Hanover and Dusseldorf.

REPORT FREELY

The ministry said the action was not directed against press freedom. They said East German journalists can report freely from West Germany, a right not given West German correspondents in East Germany.

They said police suspect criminal "hate reports" broadcast and published in East Germany originate from correspondents working in West Germany.

3,000 TROOPS READY

New Violence
In Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Uncertainty and apprehension continued to grip this racially-troubled city today as 3,000 combat-ready troops stood within striking distance in the event of new outbreaks of major violence.

Scattered violence was reported during the night. Two persons were hurt. Automobile windshields were smashed and windows were broken in about a dozen buildings.

A white youth was slashed on his right elbow with a knife. He said he was attacked by a group of Negroes. A Negro man was admitted to hospital after he was struck in the face by a large steel ball fired from a slingshot, apparently wielded by a white youth.

Police arrested two Negroes early today in connection with attacks on officers during the Sunday riot. Carl Ivory, 53, was charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder, police Capt. B. F. Walker said. Erskine Brown, 26, was charged with one count of assault with a deadly weapon—a rock.

Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Monday night went through the city's Negro community and in pool halls and on street corners urging his listeners to discard their knives and clubs.

Mayor Albert Boutwell urged President Kennedy to remove the threat of federal troops. He said that while he did not question Kennedy's motive, he did question the

Caouette 'Shot Down'
By Thompson Denial

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit leader Robert Thompson said Monday it was "a fabrication of somebody's imagination" to allege—as Deputy Leader Real Caouette did last weekend—that Social Credit members tried to negotiate a deal to keep the Diefenbaker government in office after the April 8 general election.

At the same time, Mr. Thompson said in an interview that six Social Credit MPs who gave, and later repudiated, a promise of support for a Liberal government had broken an agreement not to participate in any deals as a result of the indecisive outcome of the election.

Mr. Caouette has said the six acted to forestall a keep-Diefenbaker-in-power move in which he implicated Dr. Guy Marcoux, the party's parliamentary whip. Dr. Marcoux resigned his Quebec party membership Saturday and announced he will sit as an Independent Social Credit member in the parliamentary session which opens Thursday.

Balky Diesel
Causes Trouble

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper's big try for 22 orbits around the earth, unexpectedly postponed today after a radar failure in Bermuda, has been scheduled for another attempt Wednesday.

Soon after today's flight was called off, only 12 minutes before blastoff, space officials were setting a new time.

At 7 p.m. EDT today the radar system will be checked again.

If all is going well, Cooper will repeat the whole process Wednesday, with the takeoff scheduled for somewhere between 9 and 11:30 a.m. EDT. If not, there will be further delays.

Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operation director, made the announcement at a press conference. He pointed out that the radar system is essential in making sure that the astronaut is entering space successfully.

"We could not, we would not go without it," Williams said.

SAME WEATHER EXPECTED

When Cooper was informed of the scrub, his only comment was:

"This was a very realistic simulation." The remark was relayed by Williams.

Williams also said the weather prediction for Wednesday is approximately the same as for today.

Liquid oxygen will be removed from the giant Atlas booster, but it is not necessary to scrub out the tanks as it has been on previous flights. Space officials said that the Bermuda radar is the sole problem as of now in determining whether the flight will go Wednesday.

As for the astronaut, he got out of his capsule at 12:27 p.m. today. He had been in the space ship for five hours, 50 minutes.

PREVIOUS DELAY

The postponement came as an anti-climax after earlier troubles not connected with the Bermuda radar had held up the scheduled launching for two hours, nine minutes.

That trouble was caused by a balky diesel engine designed to move the giant service tower away from the launching pad. It was necessary to replace a fuel pump and purge foreign matter from the fuel line before the engine could operate.

Indications of the radar trouble came only about 15 minutes before the launching was called off. The tracking station at Bermuda said it was experiencing intermittent difficulty, but Mercury control officials decided to continue the countdown in case the radar could be repaired.

But technicians at Bermuda reported minutes later that it would be impossible to replace the equipment today and the shot was called off.

SENDS SIGNALS

The radar, described as FPS-16, is a 12-foot-diameter dish designed to send radio signals to the spacecraft as it rises over Bermuda about five minutes after launching.

The signal triggers a device called a radio transponder in the spacecraft. By measuring the time it takes a signal to travel from the Bermuda station to the spacecraft and then back to Bermuda, computers can determine precise velocity and the altitude of the astronaut's vehicle.

This information would be essential for determining whether Cooper had achieved the proper orbital course. If

... after year's absence

Warm Welcome
For Winnie
In Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Members of the House of Commons stood and waved their agenda papers in a warm welcome to Sir Winston Churchill when he paid what they sensed could be one of his last visits to the House today.

On May 2, Britain's wartime leader announced that he would not be running as a candidate at the next general election because of his increasing immobility since he broke a thigh-bone last summer.

As he entered the Parliament buildings, he doffed his hat and waved and smiled to the crowd.

His son-in-law, Agriculture Minister Christopher Soames, helped him as he went into the debating chamber. There at the entrance he smiled acknowledgments of the members' welcome.

GREETED BY MACMILLAN

Prime Minister Macmillan moved along the seats to greet him.

Macmillan said: "At the risk of being out of order, I think the whole House would wish me to welcome most warmly my right honorable friend the member for Woodford (Churchill) on his return to the House of Commons after his accident and to say how glad we are to welcome our most distinguished member."

Harold Wilson, leader of the Opposition Labor party, said he also would like to say how much Labor members welcome "the sight of the right honorable gentleman coming into this chamber after his accident."

"We are glad to see him so fully restored that he can be with us again. The whole House will join with the prime minister in giving him the heartiest possible welcome. Churchill, who first appeared in the House as long ago as 1900, looked fit and well. He was obviously delighted to be back again after nearly a year's absence."

At the Association's recent meeting, Dr. W. G. Wallis spoke on developments in psychiatry, emphasizing the trend toward treatment in the community rather than in institutions.

CHICAGO (AP)—Hundreds of Negroes, said to have been angered by the wounding of a Negro youth during an attempted burglary, stoned police and firemen in what police termed an anti-police demonstration Monday night.

The desired path is not achieved, Bermuda then sends a signal to bring Cooper out of orbit immediately.

A large recovery fleet of 28 ships, 125 planes and 19,000 people was strung out around the world to recover the astronaut no matter where he landed. It will remain on station.

Before the crucial radar trouble at Bermuda threw a monkey wrench into today's plans, officials had been confident. They announced that they were changing the latest possible launch time from 11:30 a. m. until 1 p. m., giving scientists an extra 90 minutes to get the rocket off the ground.

In Houston, Tex., the astronaut's wife and two teen-age daughters sipped coffee and orange juice during the delay caused by the faulty diesel engine. Mrs. Trudy Cooper and the girls, alone in their ranch-style home 25 miles east of downtown Houston, had arisen at 7 a. m. but because of the delay, they still had not eaten breakfast two hours later.

Cooper, 36, was awakened at 3:50 a. m.—EDT. He showered, shaved and ate the traditional flight-day breakfast of the astronauts: Orange juice, scrambled eggs, a small steak and toast. His breakfast companions were astronauts Walter Schirra and Donald K. Deke Slayton, Williams, and Robert R. Gilruth, director of manned space flight.

Then came the final physical checkup by Dr. Howard Minners, a flight surgeon. Minners said he found Cooper in "tip-top shape."

Premier Bennett will hit the road this summer.
 His cabinet will play some out-of-town shows, too.
 They'll head for a series of meetings in the Kootenays the week of June 12.
 Mr. Bennett will be off again to attend the annual provincial premiers' conference at Halifax Aug. 5 to 7.
 Then it's the Alaska-Yukon-B.C. conference at Whitehorse Sept. 17 to 18.
 Several ministers will probably accompany the premier to Whitehorse, maybe via the new ferry service between Prince Rupert and Haines.

asked Cooper: "Are you ready?"

Cooper replied: "You bet."

He waved to reporters as he left the living quarters in Hangar S to climb into the huge van for the three-mile ride to launching complex 14. He was smiling broadly.

Fingers of pink were pushing across the sky as Cooper climbed out of the van. The air force major paused to shake hands with one of the pad technicians, then walked quickly to the elevator for the 16-storey ride to the top of his huge booster rocket.

Gemini-oriented experiments slated for Cooper include the release of a ball of blinding lights that was to follow Falcon 7 in a separate orbit and the ejection of a 30-inch inflatable balloon to trail Cooper's capsule on a 100-foot line for 90 minutes.

Cooper was asked to observe and photograph these objects in a test of his ability to judge distances of space, an essential for Gemini and Apollo space rendezvous missions.

In other experiments aimed at landing men on the moon this decade, Cooper was to take photographs of the horizon, stars and a high intensity light in South Africa to determine their use as navigation aids when the three-man Apollo spaceship returns from the moon.

Victoria's Cherrybank Hotel will continue to operate as a going concern despite filing of bankruptcy proceedings against the owner, Columbia Properties Ltd., a spokesman for creditors said today.

J. Donald Smith of Commonwealth Mortgage Corp. of Victoria, principal creditor, said "we want to keep operating to safeguard the creditors, and are confident the hotel will be profitable."

William Schremm of Vancouver was named trustee of the property as a result of the bankruptcy proceedings, involving nearly $200,000, filed against Columbia Properties several weeks ago.

Principal shareholders of the property company are Dexter Lewers of Vancouver and Ralph Cossey of Victoria.
